Compulsory Voting Recommendation Omitted From Act

East Indians and Chinese Given Franchise in Only Major Change

Long-awaited legislation to amend the Provincial Elections Act reached the floor of the House yesterday.

It contains only one major change of policy: Enfranchisement of East Indians and Chinese.

The unanimous recommendation of an all-party committee of the House that registration and voting be made compulsory will not be written into the act.

Japanese will not be given the vote, except those who have served in the armed forces of Canada.

British Columbia's native Indians will be enfranchised only if they have served in the armed forces, are living off reservations, or have been enfranchised under the Dominion Indian Act.

Doukhobors, Hutterites or Mennonites who have served in the armed forces, and their wives and descendants, will be given the vote only if they have actually served in the armed forces. The committee had recommended that they should be enfranchised if they had served or had been rejected for service.

It is an amending measure of 174 sections making up a book 33 pages. Here again a recommendation of the committee has been disregarded. It had suggested that the Elections Act should be repealed and a new act written to incorporate the committee's 37 recommendations.

In line with the committee's proposal, appointments of returning officers will be made permanent during good conduct.

Revision of administrative machinery will provide for perpetual registration, with a master file of all persons registered maintained under the supervision of the registrar-general of voters in a central registry. This will require monthly returns from the director of vital statistics, for the register to be kept up to date.

May Force Reshuffle Of Cabinet

Bevin Might Go To Another Post

LONDON, March 27, (AP).—Labor members who oppose the Government's foreign policy insisted today that Prime Minister Attlee will have to shuffle Foreign Secretary Bevin to some other job to avoid a major rift in the party.

Informants close to Attlee said they agreed there might be an "early" reshuffle in the Cabinet but discounted the rumors that Bevin would be displaced.

Labor legislators who precipitated a rebellion against Bevin's policies last Fall said Bevin will have to go sooner or later because "the crisis in British foreign policy threatens the existence of Socialism.

These legislators said nearly 200 Labor members of Parliament were ready to force the foreign policy issue, contending the Government hews too close to United States policy and threatens ultimate war with Russia.

Molotov Has Compromise On Claims in Austria

MOSCOW, March 27 (AP).—Foreign Minister Molotov gave ground tonight under pressure from the three Western powers and agreed to discuss a definition of German assets in Austria, the key issue in the writing of the Austrian peace treaty.

He submitted to the Foreign Ministers' Council a compromise proposal which United States authorities said unofficially was too vague to permit acceptance. Whether Molotov's retreat foreshadowed agreement on the Austrian pact remained in doubt.

For two hours Molotov clung steadfastly to his argument that any German assets in the Eastern zone of Austria belonged to Russia without question, and that no definition of what constituted German assets was necessary. The problem, he said, was covered adequately by the Potsdam agreement which Russia has interpreted as allowing her to take whatever she pleased.

Secretary of State Marshall, Minister Bidault and Foreign Secretary Bevin had insisted that it was necessary to define what constitutes German assets in Austria. They maintained that the Germans had seized much Austrian and United Nations property without payment, and this could not be considered German although it was in German hands at the end of the war.

In partial acceptance of a French proposal, Molotov suggested that the deputy foreign ministers be instructed to "prepare a definition of German assets excluding property seized by the Germans by direct force, or as a measure of Aryanization without compensation from the United Nations or Austrians."

The French proposal would have the deputies prepare a "definition of German assets excluding all property taken by force or duress, and in general unduly taken by the Germans from the United Nations or Austria for religious, political and racial reasons."

Molotov's elimination of the phrase "by duress" would give the Russians a right to assets taken by Germany by the use of threats and other pressure. Likewise the phrase "as a measure of Aryanization" would apply only to assets taken from Jews, and would still permit the Russians to seize the former property of other religious and political victims.

Bevin and Marshall asserted they must have agreement that no property be taken as German assets if it had been acquired by force or duress after the Germans annexed Austria.

They took the position that Austria must be left with sufficient assets in order to be able to survive as an independent country.

One Man's Suspension Causes Railway Strike

Thousands of commuters were prevented from getting to work in London when 400 members of the Southern Railway Company went on a protest strike recently. The strikers protested the suspension of Motorman James Counter. Shown at the top is a view of the posting of the notice at the Cannon Street station. Railway officials stand by to advise passengers of alternative routes. Below is a view of the deserted Cannon Street station, usually jammed with passengers.

Bans Japanese From Fisheries

OTTAWA, March 27 (CP).—Veterans Minister Mackenzie said tonight in the Commons steps have been taken to prohibit "absolutely and completely" fishing by Japanese in Pacific Coast waters "at least for a certain period."

Mr. Mackenzie spoke after Howard Green (P.C., Vancouver South) asked whether orders in council relating to Japanese which are appended to the Government's main Control Bill, will lapse when that measure expires next year.

The minister, who represents Vancouver Centre, said the problem with which both he and Mr. Green were concerned was not for the period of the legislation but for a "certain amount of security for our people over a period of five or ten years."

Mr. Mackenzie said orders dealing with the relocation and repatriation of Japanese living on the Pacific Coast "certainly would be a matter for further consideration."

Labor Minister Mitchell said no Japanese would be permitted to return to the West Coast security areas during the life of the bill, and that the Japanese repatriation policy would be continued. Approximately 4,000 Japanese already had been returned to Japan under this policy.

Naval Stores Locating Here

OTTAWA, March 27.—In line with the amalgamation of administrative services, National Defence Headquarters disclosed tonight that two moves are under "active consideration" for the Pacific Coast.

The first is to turn the army ordnance buildings adjoining the navy yard in Esquimalt over to the navy. This would establish the main Pacific Coast naval stores base permanently at Esquimalt.

The second is to turn the naval stores base at Lynn Creek in Vancouver over to the army.

Liquor Act Changes Bring New Controls

Liquor permits are on their way out.

But new controls on the liquor trade are on their way in, to curb drinking by minors and trafficking in beer parlor licences.

Rationing will automatically be scrapped with the throwing out of the permit system.

The Government's long-awaited amendments to the Liquor Act, which reached the floor of the House last night, make these provisions, and go further: They provide for the setting up of a fund under the direction of the Minister of Education "for promotion . . . of education in respect to the proper use of alcohol."

Cocktail bars or any public sale of liquor by the glass will not be sanctioned.

How the education minister's fund is to be financed is not stated in the bill, but it is presumed that will be provided from Government liquor profits.

The bill will give wide powers to Liquor Commissioner W. F. Kennedy to require beer parlor licencees also to provide satisfactory rooming accommodation and the other services that go with an hotel.

Meals or even snacks in the beer parlor proper are still out, however.

Penalties for drunkenness, long the subject of adverse comment, will be reduced. A first offence will carry a fine of $10 in place of the present $50, and a second offence $25, instead of $100.

Too Many Coppers Not Legal Tender

VANCOUVER, March 27 (CP).—Legal tender or not, 200 coppers are still a lot of pennies.

An astonished police court clerk was today confronted by an angry motorist who dumped 200 pennies on the counter to pay a parking fine.

But the motorist almost went up in smoke when the clerk refused the copper money on the grounds that more than 25 pennies need not be accepted as legal tender.

Court to Have Added Member

British Columbia's Supreme Court will be increased to seven justices from the present six under an amendment to the Supreme Court Act brought into the House last night by Attorney-General Gordon Wismer.

The amendment represents a compromise on the recent recommendation by Chief Justice Wendell Farris that membership of the court be raised to eight justices.

Chiefly, Mr. Justice Farris was concerned with the burden imposed on the court as it now stands by the increase in the number of divorce petitions.

Last year the court put through 2,000 cases and Mr. Justice Farris told the Attorney-General that no judge could handle more than six cases a day and still maintain a court that was in the public interest.

District Tops Drive Quota

Greater Victoria has passed its $65,000 objective in the current national Red Cross Campaign, it was announced from Red Cross headquarters last night. According to campaign officials, more than $70,000 has been collected to date.

Norman Yarrow, honorary campaign chairman, has expressed his pleasure at the result of the drive in Greater Victoria.

"Thanks to the splendid and valued co-operation of citizens, canvassers, newspapers, radio and business establishments, the campaign has run with great smoothness," he said last night.

"It is with particular pleasure and happiness that I announce that Victoria has passed its objective," he added, "and there is every reason to believe the final figure will be considerably larger than the sum we have now attained."

Arrest Youths For Burglary

VANCOUVER, March 27 (CP).—A group of juveniles, ranging in ages from 10 to 16, are being rounded up today by city police in connection with 18 robberies reported during recent weeks.

Three youths, aged 13, 14, and 15 years, have already been arrested, and nine other youths, involved in the same robberies, will be rounded up.

The boys are believed to have operated from Grouse Mountain, throughout North Vancouver and Vancouver.

Probing Into Jewish Underground Reporter Tells of Secret Meeting

(Associated Press Correspondent Carter L. Davidson has been covering Palestine for the last year. In the following dispatch he gives an account of a secret meeting with Jewish underground leaders in the Holy Land, one of the rare occasions on which the Irgun Zvai Leumi command has dealt directly with the foreign press.)

By CARTER L. DAVIDSON

JERUSALEM, March 27 (AP). — I have just returned from a visit into the strongholds of the Jewish underground, where I was permitted to meet secretly with a group of confident young men who plot to carve with the sword a Hebrew republic on both sides of the Jordan River.

They are the leaders of Irgun Zvai Leumi (National Military Organization) and from their war chest have sprung many of the tactics which have turned the Holy Land into a battlefield.

The interview itself was so casual in its manner that it might have been a chance gathering of bank clerks or insurance salesmen talking shop had it not been conducted "Somewhere in Palestine."

The preliminaries—waiting at a prearranged spot in a prescribe costume, changing from one taxi to another on a dark road, wearing blackout goggles and slumping low on the taxi seat, hearing terse passwords and instructions in Hebrew—were exciting, but the actual meeting was lacking in dramatics.

I was not permitted to see the Irgun commander, Menachim Beigin, "for security reasons." It was assured, however, that he would see me later "when the situation eased."

My well-dressed informants could pass for members of a young businessmen's club in North America. They spoke in such matter-of-fact fashion that it was difficult to realise they were speaking of their aim to wage "a state of constant warfare" to restore Palestine to the Hebrew people.

Without emotion these men spoke of "an operations staff" and a "board of strategy."

The Irgun strategy is based on "a constant state of war" geared to "opportune moments." The spokesman explained that the explosion March 1 in the Jerusalem British officers' club which killed 16 persons and wounded 20 "might possibly be regarded as an answer to Foreign Secretary Bevin's House of Commons speech in which he called us a mere religious sect."

"The requirements of war make essential a tactical co-ordination between Irgun Zvai Leumi and the fighters for the freedom of Israel, the so-called Stern Gang," they explained, "but there have been no actually combined operations recently."

While the organization's supplies of munitions were not unlimited, "they are sufficient so that no operation has ever been canceled or delayed" for lack of weapons.

In addition to the explosives and arms taken from British forces in recurrent arsenal raids, the Irgunists now are manufacturing as a home product "an explosive more powerful and useful."

They denied any connection with recent robberies, such as that in which a gang of ten Jews a few days ago took $12,000 from the Palestine Discount Bank.

Caucus Reported Firm On Voting Supervision

Coalition Claimed Closely Knit in Opposing Dropping of Strike Ballot Provision From Bill

With Government circles in a furore yesterday on new labor laws, informed sources said the Coalition caucus was standing firm for inclusion of Government supervision of secret strike ballots.

Earlier, it had been reported that some Coalition members were weakening and might side with Labor Minister George Pearson on removal of the Government supervision provision that the minister himself had introduced on March 10.

Late last night, however, sources close to the Government had it that the caucus again was closely knit and would not budge from its stand that ballots should be supervised.

Mr. Pearson, however, did not change his attitude.

He is reported to have said that it was true that he did not now favor Government supervision of ballots, and that he did not want to move second reading of the Industrial Conciliation and Arbitration Act bill if it contained that provision.

Unofficially, it was said that Mr. Pearson was redrafting Section 72 of the bill, which is the section providing for Government supervision.

The minister himself, however, professed ignorance of any move to send the bill back to caucus.

One private member said: "The caucus stands firm that the supervised vote must stay in, and it is now up to Mr. Pearson. We won't budge from our position."

Corridor discussion of the labor impasse was brought on by a press statement issued by Harold Pritchett for the British Columbia Federation of Labor that

"Bill 39 is to be amended to remove organized labor's main objections, namely Government interference in all union votes, which was verified today by Labor Minister Pearson when executive officers of the (federation) met with Premier Hart and Mr. Pearson.

"We feel confident Mr. Pearson will not support the proposed drastic penalties on unions long advocated by employer interests."

Will Oppose Employee Dismissals

Say Communism Is No Ground

LONDON, March 27 (AP).—Organized civil servants prepared tonight to fight for a Government ruling that membership in the Communist party "affords no ground for dismissal" from a Government post.

P. R. Jones, secretary of organized municipal civil servants, said the move was prompted by "alleged victimization of civil servants merely on the ground that they are members of tthe Communist party."

He said cases under investigation "arose through the action" of the security branch of British Army Intelligence.

Two women clerks were dismissed without reason, said L. C. White, general secretary of the Civil Service Clerical Association.

They are both members of the Communist party and as, in the present cases and a number of previous cases, the persons concerned have all significantly been Communists, the assumption is that this is the reason, but we cannot get official confirmation or denial of it," White said.

LONDON, March 27 (Reuters).—Some members of the civil service have been dismissed on the orders of Military Intelligence—the British undercover anti-espionage organization—it was learned here today. Some of these workers are connected with the development of atomic energy research.

This follows the publication in the Communist Daily Worker of a report that M.I.-5 had forced the dismissal of Communists from the civil service. The Daily Worker quoted Len White, secretary of the Civil Service Clerical Association, as the source of their report.

Lewis Objects

Appearing before a Senate public lands subcommittee in Washington, John L. Lewis, United Mine Workers' president, protests against President Truman's appointment of James Boyd, 42, of Colorado, as director of the Bureau of Mines. Lewis urged the committee not to give approval.

Expect Budget Early in May

OTTAWA, March 27 (CP).—Finance Minister Abbott said in the Commons today the budget will be brought down immediately after the House completes study of emergency control legislation.

May 15 has been set as the new date on which emergency transitional powers come to an end. The current controls debate may come to an end before that date.

Mr. Abbott said it was not possible to give a definite date.

Majority of Committee Back Braefoot Veterans

Members of the three-man investigating committee into the Braefoot Estate housing project appear to be sharply divided over the interpretation of the committee's report, recently tabled in the House of Commons, and recommending a 20 per cent reduction in the cost of the 28 houses.

According to information received by Canadian Legion officials here yesterday, two of the committee members are supporting one interpretation against the third member's opinion on the matter.

Last week, Walter S. Woods, deputy minister of veterans' affairs, said that J. Y. McCarter, committee chairman, had informed him personally that the committee did not mean the net cost of each house to the individual veteran be reduced by 20 per cent, but that the gross cost to Gordon Murcheson, Veterans' Land Act director, be so reduced.

At that time, L. G. Scott, Victoria member of the committee, representing the Citizens' Rehabilitation Council and the Braefoot tenants, took exception to Mr. Woods' interpretation.

"Our recommendations were that the cost of the house and the house alone, not the property, be reduced," Mr. Scott said at the time.

Mr. Scott yesterday confirmed his stand with a letter to Canadian Legion officials here stating that "when the committee completed our inspection at Braefoot, we unanimously agreed that a 20 per cent reduction on cost to the director be made to the veterans and further that all necessary repairs be made to the houses and drainage be put in working order."

Third member of the committee, S. D. Buzzelle, representing the Legion, pointing out that "it was thoroughly understood by our committee that a 20 per cent reduction be made the veterans."

"In my estimation, any reduction to the Government would be a matter solely between the contractor and the Government," he said.

Blast Victims Now Total 62

CENTRALIA, Ill., March 27 (AP).—Discovery of another group of 27 bodies late today brought the total of known dead in Tuesday's coal mine explosion to 62 and closer to the eventual toll of 111 victims predicted by rescue workers.

Fred Hellmeyer, chief electrician for the Central Coal Co. Mine No. 5 where the workers were trapped more than two days ago, said he believed the bodies of most of the 49 miners still unaccounted for would be found in three separate groups, one group farther down the west entry in which the 27 latest victims were found.

Hellmeyer told a reporter that from his investigation he believed the explosion had been due to a dust explosion.

The electrician said the explosion was followed by a flash of fire that swept through coal dust in the mine. Some of the victims found today, Hellmeyer pointed out, had been badly burned about the hair, and their clothing had been burned off in some instances.

Members Get Tax Exemption

An amendment to the Constitution Act introduced in the Legislature last night by Attorney-General Gordon Wismer will allow M.L.A.'s to write off for income tax purposes up to 50 per cent of their $3,000 annual indemnities to expenses incurred in covering their ridings.

Passed through second and third readings, the amendment will remove the complaint of many up-country members that all or most of their indemnities are eaten up by expenses incurred in visiting their constituents.

Last year the Legislature increased indemnities from $2,500 to $3,000.

River Floods Farm Lands

Seven Villages Are Under Water

LONDON, March 27 (AP).—The swollen Trent River broke its dikes today and engulfed seven villages in Lincolnshire, East-Central England.

The river, five miles wide and filling its whole valley basin at one place, broke a dike near Scunthorpe in Lincolnshire and the flood spread 15 miles. Some of the country's best potato-growing land was inundated.

Elsewhere swollen rivers were receding slowly, but hundreds of persons remained in refugee centres or, marooned on the upper floors of their homes.

In Germany's Russian occupation zone, reports said more than 6,000 Germans were trapped in their homes by a flood of the Oder River, and that approximately 150,000 acres of farmland had been inundated.

Island Flowers In Chilly East

OTTAWA, March 27.—In the midst of the chilly spell in Ontario and Quebec more like Winter than Spring, Eastern members of Parliament today were getting at long distance some of the atmosphere of Vancouver Island's sunny climate.

Major-General George Pearkes, V.C., had on display in his room in the House of Commons a huge box of Spring flowers which had been sent him by growers at Gordon Head. They arrived in splendid condition by air express.

By nightfall the daffodils and the narcissus had reached the vanishing point as the general distributed the flowers to visitors to the display.

Votes to End Sugar Ration

WASHINGTON, March 27 (AP).—The United States Senate voted, 45 to 35, today to end sugar rationing October 31 after deciding that this year's allotment should be 35 pounds a person for home use.

The allotment last year was 25 pounds. The prewar consumption was about 50

Control Bill Given First Reading In Stormy Commons Session

OTTAWA, March 27 (CP). — A three-day Progressive Conservative "baby" filibuster against the Government's emergency control legislation ended abruptly in the Commons tonight and the resolution preliminary to the "Omnibus" Control Bill was reported out of committee and the bill itself given first reading.

The resolution, which had been discussed for two days after its introduction last Friday, became bogged down in the formal committee stage Tuesday when Progressive Conservative members opened an unprecedented debate in which they bombarded Cabinet ministers with a flood of queries about the impending legislation, aimed at continuing for a year 57 wartime controls on prices, rentals and other fields.

Tonight, as suddenly as it began, the debate ended in hot words, with John Hackett (Progressive Conservative, Standstead) charging that Justice Minister Ilsley's wartime burden as Finance Minister had left him "unsuited in mind, outlook and bearing" to handle the legislation.

Prefacing his remarks with the hope that the minister would not take offence, Mr. Hackett said he believed Mr. Ilsley had become convinced that the control system must continue and now was inclined to be "harsh" with those who thought otherwise.

Mr. Ilsley, who has piloted the legislation through the House since its inception and presumably will guide it until the last debate, took the attack without comment, but a roar of disapproval arose from the Government benches.

Mr. Ilsley, fighting, arguing, defending the measure step by step with the Opposition, charged that those who opposed the measure were "flying in the face" of the problem and the price rises which had developed in the United States after decontrol.

Both the C.C.F. and the Progressive Conservative parties adopted "extreme" views, he said. The C.C.F. party mistakenly believed permanent controls were possible under Canada's Constitution. This was a false theory. The Progressive Conservatives argued that the Government's method of decontrol was disorderly, rather than orderly.

Those were "extreme views" which could not be supported by "common sense."

But, said Mr. Ilsley, those very same views were a "pretty good indication" of the "soundness" of the Government's position.

The brisk and bitter debates since the control resolution first was introduced, gave the Commons a curtain-raiser of the lengthy discussion expected to open Monday when the measure comes up for second reading and to follow when the bill comes to the long, painstaking process of clause-by-clause study in committee.

Theft of Jewels From Duchess of Windsor Still Leaves Scotland Yard Baffled

LONDON, March 27 (Reuters).—Scotland Yard, aided by police throughout the world, today still is baffled by the theft of £20,000 ($80,000) worth of jewels from the Duchess of Windsor nearly six months ago.

Although one of the widest international searches in the history of jewel thefts has been launched, there still is no clue as to who planned and carried out the robbery at Ednam Lodge in Sunningdale, Berkshire, where the Duke and Duchess of Windsor were staying last October.

Every clue, however slight, has been pursued in a search that has laid a trail to remote parts of Europe and out-of-the-way spots on the North American Continent. Every month police dossiers—most countries have one—on the subject increase in size, and Scotland Yard is in constant communication with other police headquarters throughout the world.

But so far every effort has ended in failure. There is still not even the slightest clue to where the jewelry is—or the slightest proof of who plotted, and achieved, what the police admit to be one of the most skilfully planned thefts of modern times.

Drew Objects to Public Meeting In Members' Legislature Room

TORONTO, March 27 (CP).—Premier Drew told members of the Ontario Legislature today that rooms in the Legislature Buildings at Queen's Park were not available for "Communist racketeers." Before orders of the day, the Premier rose to condemn use of the building for a meeting called tonight by the Consumers' Federated Council of Toronto.

He called the attention of the House to a letter circulated by the council and received by members, inviting the public to a meeting in Room 253 in the Legislature Building tonight to protest milk prices.

Room 253 is the room recently assigned to the two Labor-Progressive members of the House—J. L. Salsberg of Toronto - St. Andrews, and A. A. MacLeod of Toronto Bellwoods. The letter was signed by Stewart Smith and Dewar Ferguson, "two prominent Communist racketeers," the Premier said.

Mr. Drew said the council was one of the many Communist "false fronts," and calling the meeting was without precedent in Legislature history, since rooms allotted to members were not used for such purposes.

These rooms, he said, were given groups for discussion of party business. A meeting should not be called by a group of people who are not members of the House to be held in these rooms. The Premier issued a warning to the Labor-Progressive members that "if Room 253 is used or utilized for similar purposes, it will be my duty to introduce a resolution that will leave no doubt as to the feeling of this Legislature."

Early in the evening, more than 100 women crowded into the Parliament Building corridors, to buttonhole members of the Legislature into pressing for a reduction in the price of milk.

The lobbying began after Mr. Salsberg told the crowd in the corridors that the meeting scheduled to take place in the Labor-Progressive members' room was against the rules.

.. Oddities ..

PUEBLO, Colo., March 27 (AP).—Mike Makarina, a steelworker, wants his funeral attendants to have a good time when he dies, and he's willing to pay for it.

In his will, recorded yesterday by the county clerk, Makarina provided a bequest of $100 "to be expended for the celebration of the attendants at my funreal to have a good and jolly time."

KALISPELL, Mont., March 27 (AP).—When Rev. James V. Schofield arrived from New York to establish a church in Martin City, a boom town, he found the spiritual needs of the community not altogether neglected.

Sunday School classes were being conducted in an ante-room of the Silver Dollar saloon.

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., March 27 (AP).—Mrs. Dewey Hoover rushed to her telephone to summon the fire department to her blazing home, but two women on the party line refused to surrender the line.

"We've heard that one before," Mrs. Hoover said one of the women told her.

She finally got the fire department, but damage to the house was estimated at $1,000.

TRENTON, N.J., March 27 (CP). —"This Legislature is going wild. We're passing legislation like drunken sailors," declared Assemblyman Peter P. Artaserse last night in the New Jersey State Assembly.

From the gallery, a sailor demanded: "Since when do sailors pass legislation?"

Appeal Filed For Mrs. Dick

HAMILTON, March 27 (CP).—Mrs. Evelyn Dick, herself sentenced to life imprisonment on a reduced manslaughter charge, today refused to testify against William Bohozuk, her former boy friend, likewise charged with the cement-block murder of the pretty widow's infant son.

What may be a sensational development followed Evelyn's stand when the court ruled that at least parts of a transcript of evidence taken in camera at the preliminary hearing could be presented by the Crown. Mr. Justice A. M. LeBel held only those parts affecting Bohozuk directly were admissible.

J. J. Robinette, Mrs. Dick's counsel, told the court he had advised her not to testify until two appeal actions involving herself had been settled.

In Toronto today Mr. Robinette filed formal notice of appeal against the life imprisonment imposed on Evelyn on the grounds that sentence was "excessive." Meanwhile the Crown has appealed a verdict by which Mrs. Dick was acquitted on retrial of the torso murder of her husband, John. In the original hearing she was sentenced to hang.

Senate Defeats Margarine Bill

OTTAWA, March 27 (CP).—The Senate, by a vote of 38-22 which split both parties, today defeated a bill which would have ended the prohibition against the manufacture, sale and importation of oleomargarine in Canada as a substitute for butter.

Senator William Euler (L., Ontario) saw his private bill to end the ban rejected for a second consecutive session after closing off a prolonged debate with the contention that defeat would extend a butter monopoly and deny consumers the right to buy a wholesome and legitimate substitute for a scarce commodity.

The vote saw 11 Progressive Conservatives vote against it and 19 for it.

Howrie Elected Mayor of Vernon

VERNON, B.C., March 27 (CP). — David Howrie was re-elected mayor of Vernon in today's by-election by a majority of 133 ballots. Forty-three per cent of those eligible cast ballots. Mr. Howrie received 548 votes. Walter Bennett, the only other candidate, polled 415.

Warrior Now At Halifax With Escort

HALIFAX, March 27 (CP).—This old naval port gave a rousing military welcome to the Canadian Navy's only capital ship, the aircraft carrier Warrior, and her two-destroyer escort today when the flat-top arrived back from a four-month training cruise which took her through Southern waters to Esquimalt, B.C.

The destroyer Nootka, as the senior escort craft, was first to edge into port in sunny, brisk weather reminiscent of the day the Warrior arrived in port for commissioning with the Canadian fleet early in 1946.

With ratings lining her windswept decks, but with her 826 Squadron complement of Firefly planes stowed below, the Warrior entered her base port and tied up at the naval dockyard pier.

The Micmac followed, tying up alongside her sister-ship Nootka without the aid of tugs.

On shore a guard of honor was drawn up for inspection by Commodore H. D. DeWolfe, senior officer afloat, and a naval band extended a musical welcome.

The aircraft carrier, accompanied by Nootka, left here November 5 for the first large-scale peacetime Canadian Navy exercises designed to give new-entry personnel maximum sea experience.

At that time she was expected to make the trip to British Columbia to be based with the Pacific Fleet. With some delay in the arrival of the carrier Magnificent from Britain, however, the Warrior now has been slated for Atlantic duty until the new carrier arrives.

Britain Names Industrial Boss

LONDON, March 27 (AP).—The Labor Government today picked a youthful steelmaker to lead the economic battle of Britain, with wide powers to plan the country's recovery from six years of impoverishing war.

The $26,000-a-year job of mustering the national resources of men, machines and materials went to 40-year-old Sir Edwin Plowden, during the war chief executive of the Aircraft Production Ministry, which kept the R.A.F. in the air.

The appointment of Sir Edwin to carry out the Government's economic plan for 1947 and go forward with a four-year plan still in the making was announced in the House of Commons by Prime Minister Attlee.

The 1947 policy outlined in a recent White Paper called for stringent economy in all imports, continuation of rationing, direction of manpower and materials into strategic industries for export production, repair and modernization of key industries, and the foregoing of increased leisure by workers.

PRIESTS AID STRIKERS

GLACE BAY, N.S., March 27 (AP). —Roman Catholic parishes of Cape Breton County and their priests have contributed $8,487 to the miners' strike fund for relief purposes, Douglas Macdonald, board member of District 26, United Mine Workers (C.C.L.) and acting district president, announced today.

Employment Scene In B.C. Brighter

VANCOUVER, March 27 (CP). — The employment scene in British Columbia was reported to be brightening today with the weather.

Unemployment Insurance Commission officials said there were 5,698 vacant jobs in British Columbia with 2,774 positions waiting to be filled in Vancouver alone. Employment heads were confident demands for labor would increase from now till July at least.

Lumbermen reported tree fallers were still urgently needed while mining heads expected a brisker turnover amongst miners. Towboat companies said captains, mates, Diesel and steam-ticketed engineers and cooks were in short supply.

New Zealand Service By Air Next Month

VANCOUVER, March 27 (CP).—William Templeton, airport manager here, was informed today by the Australian National Airways that the new air service between Vancouver and New Zealand will start April 24, with a plane every two weeks.

The New Zealand air line will go directly from the Islands to Fiji, and from there will follow the same route as the present Australian service to San Francisco and up the coast to Vancouver.

Police and Navy Men Combine To Save Prairie Flood Victims

SASKATOON, March 27 (CP).—Royal Canadian Mounted Police and crews from H.M.C.S. Unicorn, Royal Canadian Navy volunteer reserve station here, teamed today to rescue scores of residents of the Pike Lake and Moon Lake areas, 20 miles south of here, inundated by the flooded South Saskatchewan River.

But fears were held for the safety of Hugh McIntosh, Moon Lake district resident, who had set out in a tractor and trailer on a rescue mission. The trailer was found near a farm, but there was no sign of either the tractor or its driver.

Some residents fled to higher ground in their own boats or by team. Two farm boys escaped by swimming their horses to safety.

Late tonight there was no sign of the water receding.

An ice jam at Beaver Creek bend started the flood as waters flowed downstream from Alberta where early thaws had started the break-up. Blocked at the bend, the river spread over the low-lying land adjoining its banks, filling gullies and dells and finally creeping up to engulf fields, roads and farms.

Telephone lines were down, making already isolated farms more helpless. Some of those caught in their farmhouses waved white sheets from top-story windows to attract rescuers.

No dead animals were seen. R.C.M.P., however, in rowing from house to house, encountered numerous rabbits perched on bushes and trees. When they tried to catch one, it dived into the water and swam to another more distant perch.

This morning a plane chartered by the Saskatoon Star-Phoenix landed on the farm of H. E. Russel in the Moon Lake district. A reporter asked Mrs. Russel if she planned to leave.

The water never had risen high enough to bother her, Mrs. Russel told him, and she felt quite secure.

A few hours later the farm could be identified from the air only by the buildings. The field on which the plane had landed was a lake.

The Russel family had been moved to safety, but some livestock drowned.

Social Crediters To Name Policy

EDMONTON, March 27 (CP). — Premier Manning announced in the Alberta Legislature today that he will issue within a few days a statement "of policy" which will make "abundantly clear" the position of the Social Credit movement in Alberta.

There was no indication in the Premier's announcement that any new policy is involved. Recently the C.C.F. Opposition in the House has linked the Social Credit Government with anti-Semitic and other policies of Major C. H. Douglas, English originator of Social Credit theories.

BENNETT OPTIMISTIC

ISLINGTON, Middlesex, England March 27 (CP).—Viscount Bennett tonight emphasized that Britain's present economic position must not be minimized or magnified and warned that the country never has been defeated and if defeat came now it would be "defeat by ourselves."

Crisis Didn't Weaken Government Survey Made in Britain Indicates

(In the following story, a Canadian Press writer surveys the effects of a paralyzing Winter on the Midlands, heart of industrial Britain.)

By STUART UNDERHILL

BIRMINGHAM, Eng., March 27 (CP).—An extensive tour of England's heavily-industrialized Midlands indicates there is no weakening in the British workman's support of the Labor Government despite the recent fuel crisis, and emphasizes the completely opposite viewpoints of Socialism and private enterprise.

A broad cross-section of the working force, from casual laborers to high trade union officials, is critical of the Government only in its failure to display more peremptory leadership and impose more rigid controls. All show eagerness for a national economy planned in even greater detail than it is today.

Private enterprise, as represented by employers and executives, is in most cases chafing impotently against present controls and grows inarticulate at the prospect of more.

ALL DETERMINED TO MAKE RECOVERY

But regardless of class or position, there appears to be universal realization of Britain's economic plight, an appreciation that conditions immediately ahead will be more austere than ever, and a determination to pull the country out of its present hole.

There is little agreement, however, on how this willingness and understanding can be translated into action. This is one crisis in which it is difficult to name the boss as a scapegoat, but old suspicions still cloud labor relations.

In this the average workman seems in advance of his union leaders, perhaps because the latter are chiefly men of middle age or older, still looking back to long, ugly periods of unemployment between two wars.

It's natural to ask these men: "Didn't the shortage of coal, which necessitated a cut-off of electrical power for industry of from two to three weeks in February, shake your faith in the Labor Government's ability to plan?"

"No," said an elderly workman, shaking his grey head. "It might have happened to anyone. The situation would have been a lot worse if we'd had a Conservative Government, because there would have been strikes—perhaps a general strike—long before this.

"If the Labor Government's been at fault, it's because it hasn't controlled industry better. What we want is an over-all plan, say for five years, with a rigid system of priorities. Top priorities would go to essential industries; they'd be the ones that would get the coal . . .

"But they're still solid for the Labor Government. We all are. We'd be fools to throw away our only chance of having a say in the way things are run, wouldn't we?"

Large scale employers, however, shrug hopelessly.

CAN'T LOOK AHEAD, MANUFACTURERS SAY

"The outlook is completely uncertain," said an automobile manufacturer whose plant employs 2,500. "Furthermore, our hands are tied. We're getting enough coal now to run a four-day week. Will we be able to continue at that rate? Or increase it? It's impossible to look more than a week ahead.

"There's nothing we can do about it. I can't go to a colliery and say: 'Give me coal at any price. I'll send my trucks for it.' I'm absolutely helpless, dependent on the amount of coal some civil servant says I can have."

He was flushed with rage, a not uncommon condition among his kind nowadays. There are many, however, who have a great capacity for sitting tight and looking far into the future.

"We'll get out of this mess all right," said one such, head of a big plastics concern, "but who knows to what depth we'll sink first."

Blood Donated to Unit Here Flown Quickly to Vancouver

In response to an urgent appeal from a Vancouver hospital, 40 pints of blood donated yesterday by Victoria citizens under the Red Cross blood donor plan were flown to the mainland, a Red Cross official reported last night.

Part of more than 240 pints of blood obtained from nearly 300 donors in the mobile blood transfusion unit operating yesterday in Britannia Branch of the Canadian Legion here, the blood was "needed immediately" in Vancouver, he said.

The mobile unit, which plans to make regular bi-monthly visits to Victoria, operated in three shifts, with units of workers donating in the morning, individual citizens in the afternoon and the Kinsmen Club at night.

Each donor spent only a half-hour in the clinic from entering until leaving. The blood and plasma will be used to supply patients free of charge with transfusions in all hospitals co-operating under the plan.

COMMUNITY PLANNING

Major-General H. A. Young, C.B., D.S.O., vice-president, Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, Ottawa, will address a meeting of the Greater Victoria Branch, Community Planning Association of Canada, at the City Hall at 8 tonight.

A business session for election of officers of the local branch will be held following the meeting. All persons in town and community planning are urged to attend the meeting.

POLICE SCHOOL

All phases of police work, from general detection and crime prevention to the proper methods of presenting evidence in court, are being taught members of the Saanich police force at a school modeled after the one established early this year in the city, it was learned yesterday.

The instructor is Sgt. Cecil Pearce, of the Saanich force, and the school is held weekly in the Municipal Hall.

Sgt. Pearce is a graduate of the British Columbia Police school and is the Saanich department's fingerprint expert.

FILM SHOWN

A film, "Snow Harvest," dealing with the surveying of mountainous snow peaks to determine water flow rate for irrigation purposes, was shown yesterday at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Optimist Club of Victoria, in the Empress Hotel. Richard Farrow gave a short address on the picture.

Percy Pierson spoke on the hazards of children playing on the roadways, and a motion was passed to investigate the possibilities of eliminating these accidents.

Among the guests present were Dr. W. A. Cleveland, head of the Vancouver Water Board and Andrew Hendry, president of the Uptown Toronto Optimist Club.

WEAVING DISPLAY

Victoria hand-weaving will be exhibited at the British Columbia Products Fair, it was announced yesterday by Mrs. W. P. Rankin, president of the Victoria Handweavers' Guild. Among other exhibits will be hand-spun, hand-dyed wool prepared by Mrs. E. Hammond.

MANY SEEK CAR

Approximately 200 would-be car owners crowded in and around the office of Sheriff Duncan McBride, of the County of Victoria, Wednesday afternoon, in response to an announcement that a 14-year-old automobile would be auctioned to the highest bidder.

A high initial bid discouraged the majority of the crowd, evidently hoping for a bargain, and after ten minutes of spirited bidding the vehicle was sold.

HORTICULTURISTS

Dr. K. M. King, of the Provincial Department of Entomology, will be guest speaker at the next regular meeting of the Victoria Horticultural Society, to be held Tuesday night at the City Hall starting at 8 o'clock.

Dr. King will speak on "Vegetable Garden Pests, and Soil Conditioning." Films will be shown with the address. Members will also discuss final plans for the organization's annual daffodil contest, to be held at the Crystal Garden April 12.

SUMMER JOBS SHORT

Undergraduates of Victoria College, particularly girls, "may experience some difficulty obtaining Summer employment," according to C. A. Mudge, manager of the National Employment Office here.

He said that while many of these students could be placed in Summer resorts, there was a definite limit to available jobs.

Many of the students, he said, even those who were graduating this year, have not yet been considered by prospective employers.

COULD SELL BLOOMS

There has been misunderstanding concerning the donations of daffodils in aid of the Queen Alexandra Solarium for Victoria's "Flower Day" according to growers.

The blooms could have been sold quite easily in the normal course of trade, the dealers explained.

Coastal Vessel Is Operated By Two Firms

Frank Waterhouse & Co. of Canada Ltd. have now an operational interest in the C.P.R.'s coastwise freighter Nootka, it was learned yesterday.

For the past two weeks the 251-foot ship has been jointly operated by the Waterhouse shipping firm and the C.P.R., it was reported.

Several weeks ago local shipping circles said that the Waterhouse Company was interested in purchasing the Nootka.

Officials of both Union Steamship Co. and the C.P.R. declined to comment on the report. Capt. O. J. Williams, manager of the B.C. Coast Service of the C.P.R., was out of the city.

Nootka, built in 1919 at a shipyard in Port Arthur, Ont., was the largest freighter operated by the C.P.R. along the British Columbia coast. She operates out of Vancouver. Her gross tonnage is 2,009.

Kiwanis Aims Reviewed For New Club

A review of the aims and objects of Kiwanis was given before the Oak Bay Kiwanis Club by Charles Dakin, Nanaimo, lieutenant-governor of District No. 1, Pacific Northwest Division, at a dinner meeting in the Oak Bay Beach Hotel.

Mr. Dakin said that the Kiwanis movement was now 30 years old, and had 2,600 clubs registered. Of this number, 14 were in District No. 1, making it the largest organization in the division, with 30 per cent greater membership than any other division.

"However," he warned, "membership in itself is not the entire aim, but the ultimate goal is that the strength of membership be reflected in the activity of the individual clubs."

"In turn," he added, "each individual member must do his best to excel in his own sphere of activity.

Quoting the slogan of Kiwanis International for 1947 he said the club must "build for peace, patriotism and opportunity."

Tom Clark, chairman of the house committee, reported briefly the fact that the Oak Bay Beach Hotel would now be the regular place of meeting for the club. President Charles Mann was in the chair.

Joiners Needed To Refit Ship

Ss. Princess Kathleen, now being refitted at Victoria Machinery Depot Co., Ltd., may not be ready for service as early this Summer as expected due to an acute shortage of journeymen joiners, it was announced yesterday by officials of the shipyard and the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

About 50 joiners are needed immediately if the refit job is to be finished by the scheduled date of completion.

H. S. Hammill, general manager at V.M.D., said yesterday joiners were needed primarily for the Princess Kathleen and also for other ships being built or repaired. He said if sufficient joiners were not available in Greater Victoria, the company would "be interested in hearing from joiners in Vancouver or anywhere else."

Princess Kathleen is scheduled for delivery to the C.P.R. toward the end of May. She will be placed on the "triangle run" of the steamship company's B.C. Coast Service.

Further Talks Under Way On Fall Fair

Futher negotiations between Oak Bay Council and the B.C. Agricultural Association are understood to be under way today following the failure of the two groups to meet on common terms yesterday regarding the use of the Willows grounds for the holding of the annual Fall fair.

At the conclusion of an hour-long meeting yesterday morning, Reeve Walter Walker of Oak Bay said, "We seem to be too far apart at the present time."

He stated that Oak Bay would allow the association the use of the fairgrounds for a further three years, and felt that the present buildings on the grounds could be repaired sufficiently to allow the holding of exhibitions during the three-year period. In the meantime, he contended, the agricultural group could locate other suitable grounds.

E. M. White, president of the British Columbia Agricultural Association, said the time offered was too short. His group had asked for seven years, he said.

"We are willing to co-operate with Oak Bay," he said, "but if we could operate at the Willows for a few years longer we could accumulate the necessary funds to enable us to build elsewhere."

FINE PROVIDED

Persons picking rhododendrons on Provincial Government or municipal land, or even on private property without permission of the owners, will be liable to a fine of $25, under an amendment to the Dogwood Protection Act introduced in the House last night.

Daffodil Distribution Is Appropriate To Anniversary in Home in Victoria

DAFFODILS have a special significance at the home of Raymond Briggs, 2702 Roseberry Avenue. According to his mother the "flower day" program arranged for tomorrow, when thousands of daffodils will be distributed free of charge to all Victorians in the downtown area, will fit in well with an anniversary.

Tomorrow is March 29, and Mrs. Briggs said that on the same date of 1945, her son—serving in the Tank Corps of the Canadian Army—was blasted out of his tank. Seriously injured, he crawled to a nearby patch of daffodils, as the enemy fire continued.

Hidden from the view of the German riflemen, he remained in the protective flowers, and his life was saved. He later managed to return to the Allied line.

His Roseberry Avenue home has a bunch of daffodils on every table this time of the year. It is a custom the family intends to follow every year from now on.

B.C. Plans to Pay 60 Per Cent Of School Transportation Cost

Commission recommendations, the In line with the Goldenberg Provincial Government intends to meet 60 per cent of the cost of transportation of pupils to and from schools.

Announcement to that effect was made by Education Minister G. M. Weir in the House yesterday during consideration in committee of his bill of 105 sections to amend the Public Schools Act.

The bill provides that the proportion of transportation costs to be borne by the Government shall be determined by the Council of Public Instruction, and Randolph Harding (C.C.F., Kaslo-Slocan) wanted Dr. Weir to white a minimum of 50 per cent into the act.

The minister replied that it was the Government's intention to find 60 per cent, but it would not be advisable to put any figure into the act, since it could not later be changed without another act of the Legislature.

The House spent more than an hour and a half in section-by-section discussion of the bill. It did not complete consideration, standing over the controversial section to provide for automatic membership of teachers in the British Columbia Teachers' Federation.

DOUBTS MEMBERS KNOW IMPLICATIONS

This was at the instance of Mrs. T. J. Rolston (Cin., Point Grey) who doubted whether members fully realized the implications in the section.

Opposition Leader Harold Winch did not oppose the section, but recommended that provision should be made for inclusion in the federation's bylaws—which must be approved by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council—of one setting out the basis on which action might be taken to suspend or expel a teacher from federation membership.

In reply to a further question by Mr. Winch, Attorney-General Gordon Wismer said teachers who exercised their prerogative to "write themselves out" of the federation would not be affected by the suspension and expulsion clause. In matters of discipline they would make their peace with the Council of Public Instruction.

Mr. Harding proposed changes in the system of training teachers for rural schools. He pointed out that at present they went from Normal School to the rural areas for some years, and then were brought into the cities, and suggested that that was working in reverse; teachers should have some years of experience in city schools before going out into the country.

Opposition members raised problems of assessment in school districts embracing several municipalities and parts of municipalities, and Dr. Weir told the House there could be no solution until an assessment equalization commission made a thorough investigation.

NEVER POSSIBLE TO END PROBLEMS

He said it was hoped that the commission would be appointed without much longer delay, and that its recommendations would be ready for the Legislature next session. It would never be possible to eliminate all problems, but the commission should be able to remove the sore spots, Dr. Weir added.

Mr. Winch maintained that it would be a good investment for the Province if free high school tuition were continued beyond the age of 18 years.

Dr. Weir replied that that was a matter at the discretion of school boards, which in many cases did not charge tuition fee after a pupil reached the age of 18. He said he had received no complaints in that regard.

Mr. Harding was not satisfied with the new scale, which provides for one teacher in an elementary school for up to 25 pupils, two for 26 to 50 pupils, three for 51 to 80, four for 81 to 120, and one for each 30 pupils in schools of more than 120. He considered that the number of pupils per teacher should be reduced.

J. W. Wormald Dies Here at 63

John W. Wormald, president of the Tillicum Club for more than ten years, died yesterday afternoon in St. Joseph's Hospital at the age of 63.

Born in Leeds, Yorkshire, England, he came to Canada in 1907 and had been prominent in Victoria sports and sporting circles since 1910.

He went overseas with the 88th Fusiliers in the Great War and returned to establish a painting business here which he operated for more than 30 years.

Suffering a sudden illness last September while visiting a brother in Toronto he returned to his home, 2523 Government Street, shortly thereafter.

He is survived by his wife, three sons, John, Herbert, and Thomas; a daughter, Mrs. C. Curnutt, Garibaldi, Oregon; one brother, George, in Toronto and a sister in England as well as grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements are in charge of the Thomson Funeral Home.

Two in Saanich Hurt in Mishaps

Painful injuries were suffered by two persons yesterday afternoon in Saanich, police reported.

Brian MacCosham, 1031 Cook Street, 11, was taken to the Jubilee Hospital by Corporal Jack Hamilton after being in collision with a truck.

B. Kent, 228 Douglas Street, was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital after his left hand was crushed by falling logs.

Hospital officials reported condition of both to be "good."

The truck collision occured at the corned of Quadra and McKenzie Streets at 5 p.m. The boy was thrown to the ground and received injuries to the left knee and leg, police said.

Winter's Work Shown By Night School Pupils

More than 1,000 night school students proudly displayed the fruits of their Winter's work to admiring friends and the public last night at Victoria High School.

The annual exhibition of the products of the students climaxed this year's night classes offered by the Greater Victoria School Board.

George Anstey, director of night schools, said: "It has been a very successful season. The enthusiasm was high at the beginning and remained constant or increased right up to the end."

He mentioned that the School Board and the instructors are willing at any time to introduce new courses into the curriculum if it is at all feasible.

"If next years' students want something different we will do everything in our power to give them the courses they want. All they have to do is tell us," he said.

COURSES COVER MANY SUBJECTS

Thirty-five subjects were covered in the Winter's courses.

Classes were held in the Victoria High School, Central Junior High School, and also at Esquimalt, Quadra Street and King's Road schools and the Market Building.

The Quadra Street school students held their display of woodworking in their own building last night. The other classes brought their works to Victoria High School except the Oak Bay classes which will hold their own display this evening.

Classes exhibiting products last night included: Painting and drawing, instructed by John Kyle, recreational activity, Dr. Hedriette Anderson and Mrs. F. Farrow; building construction, instructed by E. Lithgoe; leather craft, L. Clark and G. D'Arcy, and steam engineering, R. Dayton.

Latest fashions were proudly displayed by Mrs. R. Gibson and her large dressmaking class. Sheet metal working attracted most interest and onlookers were given demonstrations by Instructor Charles Thom.

In the woodworking display, instructed by A. H. Marrion and A. L. Bagshaw, one of the prize works, a dressing table made of native wood, was exhibition by its maker, Miss E. G. Aitken.

Gym practice, plumbing, doll and toy making, technical drafting and machine shop practice also attracted large crowds.

Sustained Yield Policy Maintained Despite Changes in Bill on Forests

Forests Minister E. T. Kenney's bill to amend the Forest Act in line with many of the recommendations of the Sloan Commission will be amended before it goes to third reading, but the changes will be made without any sacrifice in the principle or administration of the sustained yield policy on which the Government is determined.

This was announced by Mr. Kenney yesterday on second reading of a bill that has been under fire from logging operators and the Canadian Society of Forest Engineers since it was introduced in the Legislature at the beginning of the session.

He said industry generally is now satisfied with the changes that will be made in the bill, and that 34 firms already had applied to the Government for forest management licences under the new plan.

MANAGEMENT LICENCES WILL BE ADVERTISED

Mr. Kenney indicated that changes in the bill will provide for mutual consent in the alteration of any working plan, and for forest management licences to be advertised so that those who might possibly be injured by them will have a chance to make representations to the Government.

Appeals from decisions of the minister on management of sustained yield licences will be allowed, to the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, and from there to the British Columbia Court of Appeal.

"There is neither intention nor desire to squeeze out the little fellow. We anticipate that 50 per cent of them will come under working circles," the minister went on. "The little man will be protected. If he can't employ a trained forester, he can combine with others, or the Government will furnish a forester at cost."

He made that statement in explanation of sections providing that no one will be allowed to log anywhere without provision for reforestation. All reforestation must be to Government standards, or else the Government itself will do the job and charge the cost to the operators.

Opposition Leader Harold Winch asserted that for the forest industry to survive on Vancouver Island, present operations in the Alberni area must be scaled down 50 per cent. There was not enough land in the area to sustain the present cut of 225,000,000 feet, he maintained.

For new crops to maintain a cut of that size, he said, would require 375,000 acres of forest land, but on the minister's own reckoning there were only 177,000 acres tributary to that area.

OFFICE CLOSING

All wholesale and retail ration problems on Vancouver Island will be dealt with by the regional office of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board in Vancouver after Friday night, when the ration administration in the Belmont Building here closes, W. A. Hick, ration officer, said yesterday.

Ration boards will continue operating in Duncan, Ladysmith, Nanaimo, Qualicum, Port Alberni and Courtenay until rationing of all commodities is officially ended, he said.

Secret Strike Ballot

The proposal in suggested amendments to the Industrial Conciliation and Arbitration Act now before the British Columbia Legislature for governmental supervision of a secret strike ballot in cases of major industrial disputes is a sound one. The Government should not recede from that position without fully weighing the consequences. The unofficially reported tussle in caucus and the debate in the Cabinet suggest that there is a move on now to withdraw the clause from the bill. To do so would have far-reaching consequences.

The events of 1946 proved to many thinking people in British Columbia that Labor was being both used and abused. Strikes were being called by proxy manœuvres. The degree of industrial disruption which followed was a crippling one. Incidents in connection with the tie-up did not escape the public's eye. Abuses occurred there and elsewhere, which certainly call for some practical form of redress. There is no clearer road to that than to ensure that all members of a craft will have free and secret access to the ballot in declaring their own minds. That such a vote would be under governmental supervision need alarm no man whose real aim is a job and its security.

If in a concession to one section of organized Labor the Government leaves the revocable check-off in the amending bill, then the secret strike ballot clause should stay in also. That is the clearer because the check-off system can be, and in some lands has been, used to coerce Labor in directions which prove unwise eventually for the rank and file of those concerned. To concede one and not the other would be to place the Government in the position of playing favorites and taking sides. Politically, that position might sincerely be regretted by the Coalition, as we have every reason to believe it would be by most of its supporters.

Meat Controls

Abolition of consumer rationing of meat in Canada may have small, if any, effect on the general picture. Government control of this food is continuing. Two "fast" days a week will remain for public eating establishments. The Dominion, through the Prices Board, will supervise area distribution of meat. Federal regulations governing slaughter permits and quotas are to be continued. Price control, for what it is worth, will continue over meats. Housewives, as the parting touch, are asked to institute meatless days in their homes and to "buy only on the basis of real need."

We wonder sometimes, what the Dominion Cabinet really thinks of the general public in Canada? How any housewife would buy meat at today's standards and today's prices on anything other than the basis of real need one cannot well imagine. Price control did not keep meat from rising to two and three prices during the war. It is tending to climb still. The housewife, faced with meats at today's prices, knows the facts, and they are not as the Prices Board sometimes has delighted to picture, in visions of rigid and effective price control.

The plain fact of the matter is that Government control of meat in Canada has not been too successful. It did not prevent price increases. It did not protect the public in its buying, nor the livestock producer in his selling. The area in between has enjoyed a spread which led at times to disruption of the process of distribution. The public has seen and followed these things in its own mind. Were all controls on meat to be eliminated tomorrow, the public would settle the matter quickly enough—by buying, not only on the basis of real need, but also at prices it considered attractive. That is the basis of any sound trade.

British Press Inquiry

It may strike Canadian journalists and others as an odd feature of the Royal Commission named to conduct an inquiry into the British press that it should contain only one full-time member of the profession affected. He happens to be a leading figure in the editorial field, the editor of The Edinburgh Scotsman, but distant observers might be excused for thinking the commission would have benefited by a greater representation of persons with practical experience of the subject to be reviewed. It could be noted, also, that while two Labor unionists and two Liberal politicians have been included on the board of inquiry, no similar courtesy has been extended to the official opposition group, the Conservative Party.

While it may take the course of the investigation to disclose the real governmental motive behind the inquiry, the character of the commission as a whole would seem to preclude its activities being conducted in the form of a witch hunt. It contains individuals of considerable academic distinction in the United Kingdom, and its chairman is a noted Oxford scholar. Proceedings should at least provide an airing along a fairly high plane of thought.

Fears expressed that the inquiry is induced mainly because of a dislike by the British Government of the adverse criticism directed against them by newspapers which are principally non-Socialist may prove to be unfounded. On any other grounds the British press has nothing to hide, and indeed has much of which to be proud. As guardians of the public interest, British newspapers would be the first to condemn any restrictive influences which might ensue from any monopoly direction. The British press, like that of Canada, enjoys a good name for its protection of the people's rights, and has been assiduous in its response to public opinion.

That response incidentally affects also the actual publication of newspapers. A newspaper is a business, and it must sell its contents to an uncoerced public. The press is dependent for its existence on the voluntary subscription of its readers. Present circulation figures everywhere are a striking testimony to the impartiality with which newspapers, in Great Britain as in this Dominion, present the news as it occurs. In all likelihood, the British inquiry will reveal the high standard of integrity that lies behind the willing service rendered to its readers as the chief result of the inquiry.

Canada's Claim

Irrespective of political alignments, Canadians will be watching with interest the efforts being made by the British and American Foreign Ministers to have the middle and smaller nations given a substantial role in devising the peace settlement with Germany. Only Russia has proved obdurate to the demands of the lesser powers that they should have a more active say in framing the treaty than that nation seems willing to concede. Why Russia's resistance should be so unbending will be a matter of wonder to most Westerners. She stands to lose nothing by the proposal. In the last analysis, the major powers will draft the final settlement.

All that the lesser nations seek is to take part in the discussions rather than sit outside, like poor relations, in case they are wanted for consultation, as Russia proposes. This should be the least of their rights. To the ordinary thinking person, the argument of Mr. Ernest Bevin, that "if they were good enough to fight with us, they are good enough to sit with us," is unanswerable. Particularly is it the case with this nation, whose war record General Marshall read into the minutes of the Foreign Ministers' Conference with striking emphasis.

That record included more than 1,000,000 men under arms; in excess of 100,000 casualties; the fourth air power of all the Allies; an expenditure of $19,000,000,000 for war purposes. If this does not entitle Canada to sit in peacetime with her wartime colleagues the war has brought a strange sequence in its train. One other point might be mentioned. Inclusion of the smaller countries might bring a new atmosphere into the over-heated confines of big power parleys. Wisdom is not the monopoly of large nations. The war itself proved that. Peace with Germany needs the help of all those who teamed together to defeat her, no less now than before.

Seen in Passing

There are several kinds of Spring fever, and all of them bad. There is that kind which prompts an elderly gentleman to dance like a lamb upon the green, when he is beyond dancing and there is no green. There is another kind of fever which burns in the brain, calling from over the hilltop where the new road runs like a chalk mark into the distant valley. Then there is that kind of fever which, annoyingly, reminds one of the 101 things that should be done immediately, but which will not be done because this is Spring and the fever is with us.

Provincial declaration that the war will "end" on June 30, 1947, would be welcomed by most people if there was any assurance that that will be the case. Provincial statute may so rule, but will the world abide by it? Of course the measure is for legal purposes, and some sort of a bill may be necessary. On the other hand, Ottawa is asking for an extension of "emergency" powers granted by Parliament in war, and the Province itself is grabbing extra gasoline taxation which arose out of the same emergency.

Amendments to the Provincial Elections Act have gone before the Legislature without the compulsory voting clauses that were originally recommended by the special committee reviewing the statute. We would commend the Administration upon that. Compulsion is not the way to inspire interest in public affairs. Voting and the registration which precedes it are matters that are very much within the competence of the individual, as a matter, not of compulsion, but of right.

"Music I Heard . . ."

Music I heard with you was more than music,
And bread I broke with you was more than bread;
Now that I am without you, all is desolate;
All that was once so beautiful is dead.

Your hands once touched this table and this silver,
And I have seen your fingers hold this glass.
These things do not remember you, beloved,
And yet your touch upon them will not pass.

For it was in my heart you moved among them,
And blessed them with your hands and with your eyes;
And in my heart they will remember always,
They knew you once, O beautiful and wise.

The Third Column

HANSOM CAB MYSTERY

Thought being the swiftest thing in human experience it took us only a moment yesterday to shed decades when we saw mention in the current Australian News Letter of an old-time detective story, "The Mystery of a Hansom Cab." No doubt some Victorians of more elderly vintage will recall it, although to youngsters reared on Earle Stanley Gardner it will be an unknown quantity.

It was—and still is if it's possible to get hold of a copy—a fascinating yarn. This column can remember crossing busy intersections with the book glued to our nose as we absorbed the intricacies of the mystery that set Melbourne agog. These were our office-boy days, when life and limb seemed secondary to the pursuit of literature.

Honesty impels the confession our instincts weren't on a very high plane. As a matter of fact we shared with most of our chums a predilection for penny dreadfuls, as they were known to the high-brows. In extenuation perhaps it could be said that school reading bred a nausea for the literary masters, and these cheap shockers were a delightful escape.

Anyway, we gloried in them. If, as had been said of adult proficiency at billiards, this was evidence of a mis-spent youth, there it was. And for a moment yesterday we were back in an era not sufficiently appreciated until we had long left it.

FAVORITE DETECTIVE

A "Hansom Cab" mystery didn't come out very often in those days, of course. It was a cut above our usual reading, since it was bound like a regular book and our customary fare was a pennyworth of close print between gaudy paper covers.

There was our favorite detective, Sexton Blake. He didn't have quite the literary polish of Sherlock Holme, who moved in better circles, but secretly we thought him far superior. That may have been because we met him in a new adventure every seven days. Just recently we came across a reference to him. Apparently he is, like Johnny Walker—whose acquaintance we don't remember he ever made—still going strong. Thirty-odd years and two world wars haven't changed him. And Tinker, his beloved young assistant, is still about 15 years old. Whether the dog Pedro still sniffs along we don't know.

With bookstalls full to bursting point with best-selling detective yarns these days a newcomer to the earth might conclude this kind of reading to be purely a modern habit. In sheer volume it is, of course, to an extent that makes the biggest mystery of all just how authors contrive never to run out of subjects.

SUCCESSFUL FORMULA

One way, of course, is to keep to the same characters, and then ring the permutations on dramatic situations. Having found a successful formula, the idea is to play it for all it's worth, and quite obviously it is worth a great deal in many instances.

They used to say of E. Phillips Oppenheim that he had a mental card index from which he plucked without effort a character here and a plot there, his continuity relying on the same kind of background, that shadowy land where international intrigue lurked and foreign spies moved in diverse manoeuvres.

Popular mystery writers nowadays prefer to stick to the same character, and there's a lot to be said for this practice. It's like visiting an old friend if you drop in on Perry Mason, for example, just to see what new legal twist he has devised. Or if your taste runs to mental rather than physical action you might prefer to spend an evening with Nero Wolfe, whom Mr. Rex Stout has endowed with a singular charm all his own.

We admit we're not so well up in detective data as we used to be. As we have remarked, we had an early grounding on the subject but lately we've fallen behind the parade.

POIROT AND WHIMSY

Our acquaintance with Miss Agathie Christie's Belgian sleuth, Hercule Poirot, for instance, is very slender, and we don't know Miss Dorothy Sayers' Lord Peter Whimsy too well, either. One thing we can thank him for, however, is the know-how about bell-ringing he passed along to us in "The Nine Tailors." Miss Sayers, you will remember, is quite erudite.

We feel a little more at home with Simon Templar, although perhaps we should avoid this super abundant personality; when you pick up a new Charteris story you never know whether the Saint is going to be saintly or the plague that gives Inspector Teal apoplexy.

Any real mystery fan could no doubt name a dozen other choice characters we've missed, but then we're no longer well versed in the literature that keeps prime ministers and generals awake at nights.

We've even forgotten to say anything worthwhile about "The Mystery of the Hansom Cab." It was written in 1886, but if you haven't read it don't let this fact deter you. The author, one Fergus Hume, couldn't interest a publisher so he issued it himself. It sold so well a Hansom Cab Publishing Company was formed to exploit it, and its sale now runs to more than a million copies. The author, ironically, sold his rights for $50.

But if you can spare a few moments from Mason or Templar or Wolfe you should find it interesting, however.

Greek King Thinks His People Too Talkative

By JOHN P. LEACACOS
North American Newspaper Alliance

ATHENS, March 27. — King George II of Greece is much more amusing and intelligent than he has been recently painted. But he is on the spot. He knows American opinion charges him with condoning a weak, quarrelsome Government with reactionary tendencies. Yet he is a constitutional monarch. His job is to say "yes" and sign papers.

In an exclusive interview lasting an hour and a half, the King spoke his mind pretty frankly, though it is not permitted to quote him directly nor on all points.

He laughed heartily and often and was in the know on all the latest gossip floating around the bars and cafes concerning the capital's personalities. He characterized many politicians quite aptly.

As to the presently constituted Greek Government, it was pointed out that an Allied commission, including Americans, vouched for its legal election. Until another election, it is the nation's Government, to whose ministers he must listen. When and if another election produces new ministers, he will listen to them, too.

It is no secret that the King is anti-Communist and no doubt he sympathizes with his present Government's course. But he does think that they and everybody else in Greece talk too much instead of getting down to work.

The King is quite optimistic about Greece if she is let alone. The Greek he described as remarkable for his resilience and capacity for quick recovery if given a helping hand. American controls on the spending of American funds in Greece are necessary—but not interference in local politics. The guerrilla fighting should be cleaned up soon and amnesties granted afterwards.

This particular reign is the third King George has had in Greece, having been elected this last time on what most observers agree was a wave of anti-Communist feeling. The King has a hunch he will stay this time, for he invited me to return in three years and see if his prediction of Greek recovery has not come true. The Greek is too merry and mild from enjoying the unique, pale sunshine of his classic land to harbor lasting hatreds.

When not receiving his ministers and signing innumerable documents—Greek law has the King sanction even the appointment of a minor school teacher in the provinces—the King gets visits from all sorts of petitioners.

Anyone in Greece can demand and usually gets an audience. Most of them have to do with personal favors. The other day a teashop owner wanted the royal influence to make the proprietor of a next-door shoeshine parlor move away because it spoiled the bon-ton of his location.

The King, who is 57, looks at least ten years younger, and like any British officer you might meet in any club—Oxford accent and all. He even talks Greek with a British accent. He complained of getting fat because he has not been getting enough exercise.

The Government has promised him a private plane to get about the country. Right now the roads are too bad to travel over; you can't make more than 15 miles an hour anywhere. He did not allude to the possibility of potshots being taken at him. One such trip was fatal to his grandfather, King George I.

A REPLY

Sir,—Didn't Miss Ellen Hart take a trifle too seriously a harmless little letter of mine on Britain's title to the term Great? Miss Hart's rejoinder falls into two parts; the former, in which, among other things, she discusses letters, I found instructive; I never knew before that "a letter carries with it a licence of permission to wander from the holy of holies, which contains the sacred rudiments of prose composition." I take that to mean that in correspondence one needn't be too particular about one's English. But there are many kinds of letter; does a love letter, e.g., fall into the same category as a lawyer's letter? The Letter to the Editor differs from all others in one important respect; it is a form of public address. One might have considered adherence to fact, logic and construction most essential here. But it appears not; it's just a letter. Anything, including eloquence, will do.

But, I really must protest against the second part of Miss Hart's rejoinder. I never applied the word "vague" to the "moral fortitude of the British people." What I did term vague was Miss Hart's own theory of moral greatness as an explanation of the name Great Britain. Does that imply hostility or indifference to the people of whom I was one during the first half of a lengthy life? Yet Miss Hart, knowing nothing of my background, directs at me some very caustic observations implying such hostility or indifference. That seems to me to be wandering from the holy of holies which contains the sacred rudiments of public discussion.

GEORGE H. MATHER.

HUNDRED-MILLION GIFT

Sir,—It is generally agreed by those who have given the matter close study that effective this year the Canadian people have earned the reduction in their personal income tax bill of up to 20 per cent of current rates. With this the writer heartily agrees but submits that the present tax be retained for one more year on the following conditions:

That the sum such a reduction would save (estimated to be in excess of $100,000,000) be devoted entirely to the purchase of Canadian foodstuffs to be forwarded at regular periods throughout the year to the people of Great Britain.

That the goods forwarded should include substantial proportions of those more interesting articles which we take for granted (canned fish, cheese, etc.) but which are generally unavailable to the British household because of the scarcity or very high ration point value. They would thus have an occasional change from a diet that has little to commend it beyond its "adequate nutritional value."

Upon notification from Ottawa that a shipment was on its way the British rationing authorities would insure that an absolutely fair distribution of these goods would be made without cost to every British household. The efficient organization referred to could take this in their stride without lengthy administrative bottlenecks.

The writer, a businessman and ex-soldier, who served in units and formations made up of Canadians from all areas in this Dominion, realizes that many of us have no blood-ties to Britain and may even profess indifference to her present dilemma. To those the scheme submitted has its selfish advantages in that it would provide an additional $100,000,000 or more for distribution to Canadian farmers, manufacturers and labor. For the rest, and I feel the bulk of us, nothing need be said except that in the late Spring of 1940 while most of the world wondered, we unhesitatingly agreed with those who made the then somewhat novel decision that it was better to die on our feet than to live on our knees. In taking the "Old Lady" out to dinner occasionally we would merely be keeping good company with those who have never failed us and who are stoically enduring a sombre experience.

By G.R.

Any system which levies taxes upon taxes is grossly unjust. A man with a mortgage on his home pays a tax to the Federal Government on city property taxes and on amounts he disburses for interest and repayment of principal on the mortgage. He pays a tax on the upkeep of his automobile used for essential transportation and business calls necessary in the earning of his living. He pays a tax on automobile insurance premiums, car licence, driver's licence, gasoline and oil taxes, and sales tax on replacement parts. He pays a tax on bills from the dentist incurred in the course of maintaining his health. He is taxed on the premiums paid to any hospitalization plan designed to preserve his health. He pays a tax on the unemployment insurance levy. He pays a tax on amusement taxes contained in the price of admission to picture shows and other forms of entertainment. He pays a tax on amounts expended to keep his home from falling into disrepair. He is taxed on his life insurance premiums. In short, if the present Dominion Income Tax Act was fair, it would provide for exemptions so that taxes would not be paid on taxes. . . . From an insurance agent whose business takes him Up-Island: "One of the worst roads on Vancouver Island extends from Duncan to the village of Lake Cowichan and Mesachie Lake. It is nothing to hear of five cars per day breaking springs. Potholes are from two to three feet across and average a foot deep. One is lucky to find a 50-foot stretch in fair condition. A logging company official counted more than 300 cars and trucks using the road from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. one day last week. He said he drove over a gigantic pothole, heard a deep groan, and applied his brakes without delay. Much to his amazement, he found he had driven over a cow which had strayed onto the highway and fallen into the hole."

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	2 ♦	Pass
2 NT	Pass	4 NT	Pass
6 NT	Pass	Pass	Pass

North-South were not using a four-no-trump convention, hence South was under no obligation to bid again over North's four no-trump, which were merely a slam suggestion. Later, South explained that he had accepted the invitation because of his three aces and the fact that North, who was limited to one ace, must be very strong in kings and queens. This latter was a sound observation, but North had the kings and queens and the slam contract was still highly undesirable!

West, preserving his strength, led a club. The ace won and a diamond was led to the queen. When West showed out, discarding a club, it was clear to South that only two diamond tricks could be counted on. East took his diamond ace and shifted to the heart seven. Declarer's nine was covered by the ten, forcing the king, and declarer then cashed the spade king and took a finesse for the spade queen. The jack held, but to no avail—South was still one trick short of his contract, and the heart finesse to the jack, which he eventually tried, let him down.

In view of the fact that even if the heart suit produced three tricks, South still would need the spade finesse, he should have cashed all his clubs, his two diamond tricks and two top hearts. East would have to hold a high diamond over dummy, hence could keep no more than three spades. Thus, having cashed the spade king, a spade finesse at the tenth trick—instead of earlier—would let South run the rest of the suit, for fulfillment of the slam contract.

B.C. Products Fair Opens in Armoury Tonight

Progress Made by B.C. Is Stressed by Premier

"Probably no province in Canada has made more real or more significant progress in recent years than [illegible]

These words open a colorful and interesting report on British Columbia by Premier John Hart.

His remarks might well be closely associated with the aims and objects of the British Columbia Products Fair, opening tonight at the Bay Street Armoury.

There are many reasons, Premier Hart explains, why this province has made such great strides in practically all fields. They are listed: Remarkable climate, a great natural wealth, unique position and advanced living, labor and social conditions.

In his account, Premier Hart points out the province is immensely rich in natural resources.

"Its timber constitutes the finest softwood stand in the British Empire; its logging and lumber industry represents an investment of some $350,000,000. It is rich in practically every mineral common to North America.

"Of its total land area of 230,000,000 acres, 4,250,000 is considered to be suitable for cultivation, quite apart from the vast areas, which, while unsuitable for intensive cultivation, are of great value for grazing purposes.

"Its offshore fisheries produce more than half of the catch for the whole of Canada. Its available water power resources amount to 2,000,000 horsepower at ordinary minimum flow, and over 5,000,000 horsepower at ordinary six-month flow on a very conservative estimate. Actually from 6,000,000 to 8,000,000 horsepower is 'probably more nearly correct.'"

Special attention is given by Premier Hart to the province's progress in manufacturing.

His comment on this subject follows:

"Apart from its great basic industries, British Columbia has made striking progress in the field of manufacturing, where it is excelled only by the provinces of Ontario and Quebec.

"A tremendous stimulus was given, naturally, by the war, especially to shipbuilding and ship repairing, although these industries had already been established for many years; but a great number of other industries were developed and brought to a higher state of efficiency under the pressure of wartime demands, which it was found could very profitably be continued and which are now integral parts of the industrial structure."

It is noted that "all of this has had the effect of rapidly increasing the population of the province—a condition which is likely to continue for a substantial period, since great numbers are waiting only for an easing of the housing situation and of the restrictions on the transfer of funds from sterling to non-sterling areas to move permanently into British Columbia."

Another industry, described as "of great and growing significance," is that of the tourist trade. The importance of this industry, the Premier adds, is keenly recognized by British Columbia—"no other province has cultivated it more zealously or intelligently."

"Business is moving to British Columbia," he continues. "Travel and settlement are soaring to unprecedented levels."

With its many advantages, British Columbia is becoming the Mecca for settlers from every part, the chosen field for industrial and commercial development and expansion.

Premier Hart holds a high regard for the future of British Columbia. He says:

"It is safe to say that British Columbia was never in a healthier or more robust condition than it is today, and there is no doubt that the next 50 years will see a growth as amazing as that of the past.

"Forward-looking industrialists, everywhere begin to see it as a country alive with opportunity. People in all parts of the world are impressed with its climatic, living and social conditions. Many thousands who came to its shipyards and factories during the war remained or returned to make permanent homes. Thousands of ex-servicemen and women brought into it by war's exigencies recognized it as a place in which to re-establish and rehabilitate themselves.

"Unquestionably British Columbia is entering upon an era of expansion and development immeasurably greater than any of those which have marked its history. Each of them made its contribution, each went farther to build and consolidate, each bore its share in overcoming the handicaps inseparable from a country in its formative stages, until today the few that still remain seem trifling to the power that can be brought to bear upon them."

Made Plans for B.C. Products Fair

FRED NORRIS

PERCY FRAMPTON

Wide Range of B.C. Products Fills Main Floor of Armoury

Interesting exhibits of many Victoria and Lower Vancouver Island firms will be seen at the B.C. Products Fair. There will also be a varied collection of displays from Vancouver and Mainland industries.

On the large main floor of the Bay Street Armoury will be located B.C. products ranging from boats and refrigerators to canned fish, biscuits, hats, art metals, felt and textiles, games, toys, rope, concrete blocks, flour, swim suits, and many other products.

Felt & Textiles of Canada Ltd., recently located on Dallas Road near the Ogden Point docks, will exhibit a new kind of floor covering—all wool, moth-proof, reversible, and colorful. This firm will have other exhibits on display.

Products of fish firms of Victoria will also play an important role at the products fair. Among them are J. H. Todd & Sons Ltd., an industry founded here in 1881. Famous to residents of Victoria and to persons throughout Canada are the brands of this firm—Tiger, Cohoe, Sunflower, and Horseshoe.

Of interest to the small boat lover will be the exhibits entered by Falconer Marine Industries Ltd., and Vogler Bros. Seacraft. Products of these firms have received recognition from persons all over British Columbia. The latter company, with business growing rapidly, has only recently moved to its large and modern plant at 3041 Douglas Street.

Outstanding among British Columbia business enterprises is the record of Home Oil Distributors Ltd., owned and developed under British Columbia management. This firm, now entering its 20th year of service to users of petroleum products throughout the province, boasts a family of more than 1,000 British Columbia residents in offices, refinery and affiliate dealer organizations. It is the aim of the firm to "Buy B.C. Products—Build B.C. Payrolls."

High quality products of Baker Brick & Tile Co. Ltd. will also be displayed in one of many booths set aside for B.C.-produced building and construction materials.

A Western product for Western people is the description given to Rogers' Golden Syrup, a well known product made in British Columbia. The firm will exhibit at the fair.

These are but a few of the 100 displays being set up for the B.C. Products Fair which will officially open tonight at 8 o'clock.

Members of the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce and the B.C. Products Bureau of the Vancouver Board of Trade, joint sponsors of the affair, are confident this two-day show will allow more Victorians to become familiar with the many industries now operating within the boundaries of this province. They are stressing the fact that B.C. products build B.C. payrolls.

TO EXHIBIT AT FAIR

From the large industrial plant of Ironcraft Art Metals Products, located on Cedar Hill Crossroad, is being produced a substantial number of art metal products. The firm will exhibit an impressive display at the British Columbia Product Fair. The business was established in Victoria 14 years ago and since that time has grown by leaps and bounds. Just recently the company completed its 100,000th piece of ornamental railing.

Will Open Fair

HON. L. H. EYRES

Provincial Minister of Trade and Industry, who will officially open the B.C. Products Fair tonight at the Bay Street Armoury at 8 o'clock.

Event Will Culminate Months of Work By City Junior Chamber of Commerce

How well do you know the products of British Columbia?

Are you fully familiar with the great strides being made throughout this province in connection with both small and large industries?

What are some of the more unusual and interesting products being manufactured and produced in British Columbia?

Victorians will have the opportunity of not only learning, but actually seeing, the answers to these and other questions, tonight and tomorrow at the Bay Street Armoury. Tonight will mark the grand opening of the British Columbia Products Fair, sponsored jointly by the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce and the British Columbia Products Bureau of the Vancouver Board of Trade.

The show will be officially opened at 8 p.m. by Hon. Leslie H. Eyres, Minister of Trade and Industry for the province.

In connection with the products fair, there will be quiz contests, based on products of British Columbia. Attractive merchandise prizes and cash awards will be distributed.

Proceeds of the big show will go to the Queen Alexandra Solarium. A paid attendance of more than 8,000 is anticipated.

The fair has been arranged in detail by a hard-working committee of the Junior Chamber of Commerce under the chairmanship of Percy Frampton. These men have been working on the affair for several months, and the event has received extensive publicity through facilities of the radio and press.

"This is the first one of its kind," Mr. Frampton reported. "If it is successful we intend making it an annual thing."

Slogan of the fair will be "Promote British Columbia Industries." It is being stressed that industry means employment. Throughout Greater Victoria have been placed posters urging the public to buy British Columbia products.

A special arrangement has been made for school children of the city. At 3 o'clock this afternoon the Armoury doors will be opened for students only. Tickets, free of charge, have been distributed to them through the Greater Victoria School Board. It is expected about 4,000 children will see the display. Highlight of the afternoon program will be a separate children's quiz contest, in which fifty one-dollar bills will be handed out to students answering questions relative to exhibits at the fair.

Another quiz will be held tonight, with prize money totaling $300. The show will open tomorrow at 10:30 a.m., closing at 11 o'clock at night. Major door prizes are also being offered.

FURNITURE INDUSTRY

One of the district's larger furniture manufacturing plants is owned and operated by two brothers, Peter and David Brotherston. Their business is located at Elk Lake. Among other products of the fast-growing business are modern bedroom suites, dining-room suites, book cases, kitchen cabinets, and many other articles. A representative showing of the furniture will be seen at the British Columbia Products Fair.

Officials of the British Columbia Products Bureau, Vancouver Board of Trade, feel this show will assist materially in acquainting youth of the city with business and industrial possibilities of the province.

They have said: "Let's take the responsibility ourselves for letting at least the boys and girls know what job opportunities there are in British Columbia." Concern has been expressed over the number of Canadians emigrating to the United States.

Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce members are confident that Victorians seeing the British Columbia Products Fair tonight and tomorrow will find their visit educational and one of interest.

Big Advertising Drive Boosts B.C. Payroll Total

"Business Is Moving to B.C."

Thousands of persons throughout Canada and other countries of the world—including businessmen and industrialists—have seen these words in large and attractive advertisements now being distributed by the B.C. Electric Railway Co. Ltd.

So great and extensive has grown the campaign since its inauguration in 1945, that the company has been forced to create a separate industrial development department.

The campaign to attract industry, commerce and business to this province is heralded as one of the most progressive undertakings of its kind in British Columbia.

The "Business Is Moving to B.C." campaign has already shown its worth. Present day conservative estimates place the value of secondary industries which have been established in the province as a result of the drive as at least $5,000,000 annually in payrolls.

"There's a future for you in British Columbia," reads the latest extensive advertising drive of the B.C. Electric, which in turn points out that the province needs secondary industries to provide employment for people already here and for the thousands of Canadians who would like to live here.

By pointing out the advantages to industry to locate in Victoria, on Vancouver Island, and in the province as a whole, the B.C. Electrical Industrial Development Department is playing an important role in helping to create hundreds of jobs.

Firms already established here, in addition to the large annual payroll, are expected to produce $22,000,000 worth of goods and services each year.

The B.C. Electric is also taking a leading part in promoting the development of the cities and towns it serves.

In the past two years, the industrial development personnel of the company has received hundreds of inquiries from financial and business interests from all over the world.

Film Company Has Exhibit At Fair Here

Of considerable interest to all Victorians at the British Columbia Products Fair, being held tonight and tomorrow at the Bay Street Armoury, will be an exhibit of North American Productions—a new industry of British Columbia whose purpose it is to produce full-length movies based on all-Canadian scripts and with all-Canadian scenery.

At the British Columbia Products Fair, all visitors will have an opportunity to see films already completed by the new motion picture company. Films, stills and drawings will be shown and explained by Bob Willett, director of public relations for the firm. Outstanding feature of the display will be the castle used in the recently completed production: "The Changeling Princess." This picture, soon to be released for showings throughout Canada and many foreign countries, has an all-Canadian cast.

North American Productions is now in a position to produce complete industrial, educational and entertainment movies from script to screen. The firm is now working on its first cartoon feature, to be labelled "Northwest Package."

Clothing Firm To Take Part

Well over 80,000 garments were produced last year by the manufacturing department of Hall & Co., Ltd., local wholesale drygoods firm.

Output of clothing has doubled in the past year, reports J. Coles, managing director of the company. The firm manufactures the "Big Horn" brand of work clothing which has become known throughout the West over the past 50 years.

An exhibit of the company will be seen at the British Columbia Products Fair. The plant where the clothing is made, located at the corner of Bastion and Wharf Streets, contains approximately 8,000 square feet of floor space, and the latest machinery available.

AUXILIARY TEA

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, Aerie No. 12, held a successful tea recently, the affair being opened by Mrs. I. Baines, a past president. Madame President Eleanor Thomas received the guests who included Mrs. T. W. Gray, Mrs. Percy George and Mrs. Levy, mother of the lodge.

A musical program was given during the afternoon, those taking part being Mrs. Hooker, Mrs. Goodenough, Mrs. Steel and Mrs. B. Bird, soloists, accompanied by Mrs. Wilmshurst; Mrs. H. Potentier, who gave piano selections; pupils of Miss Wynn Shaw and of Miss Florence Clough, who entertained with songs and dances.

Tea was served under the convenership of Mrs. E. Cooper, Jr., and the committee responsible for the arrangements was composed of Mrs. M. Hallam, Mrs. W. Wyber, Mrs. T. Brundson, Mrs. C. Wigely, Mrs. M. Brown, Mrs. O. Sandford, Mrs. K. Taylor, Mrs. J. Taylor, Mrs. G. Kennedy and Mrs. Biles.

OSLO SUBWAY

Oslo, Norway, is the smallest city in the world which boasts a subway.

Film Admissions To Be Increased

Admissions to movie theatres are due for a price increase sometime next month, it was reported here yesterday.

Word has been received by theatres in the Famous Players chain that prices will be rounded out, bringing children's admissions, which were 12 cents to 15 cents; and, adults' prices, from 36 cents to 40 cents and from 48 to 50 cents.

Although no definite news of the increase has been received by Odeon theatres in the city, possibility is that they will follow the lead of Famous Players, Inc.

In Ottawa, Kenneth W. Taylor of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, commented last night that theatre prices were decontrolled by the board last January.

"As far as our board is concerned, theatres can charge what they like," he said.

MAY DAY PARADE

"How to Improve the May 24 Parade" was the table discussion at the Victoria Toastmistress meeting, with Mrs. Marjorie Naysmith as leader. Dr. Marian Sherman was the guest of the evening. Miss Nellie Savin presided over the business session when it was decided that the next regular meeting should be canceled so that members may attend the Oratorical Competition on April 1 at the Y.M.C.A. in which Toastmistress Iris Vallance will compete. Mrs. Alice Nicoll conducted the speech-program given by Miss Joyce Dixon, Miss Joan Mutrie, Miss Carla Ellis. Miss Marjorie Press gave the vote of thanks and Miss Iris Vallance was general critic. After adjournment members attended the Golden Gavel Competition.

At the Theatres

"White Tie and Tails" Opens Today at Plaza

It was with no little surprise that Dan Duryea came to the end of the script of Universal's "White Tie and Tails" and found himself still alive. The picture opens today at the Plaza Theatre. That usually doesn't happen to Duryea. Out of eighteen cinema roles to date he has been a heavy or a heel in no less than 16 of them. Duryea, Ella Raines and William Bendix co-star in "White Tie and Tails." Frank Jenks heads the long featured cast which includes Scotty Beckett, Donald Curtis, Richard Gaines, Clarence Kolb and Barbara Brown.

Stellar Trio Stars In Heart-Warming Story

"Butch" Jenkins, Beverly Tyler of "Green Years" fame, and popular young Peter Lawford are the happy-go-lucky trio in "My Brother Talks to Horses," which opens today at the Dominion Theatre. Laid at the turn of the century, the new picture tells a homespun and heartwarming story of a Baltimore family whose son wins them fame and fortune by his strange proclivity for understanding the thoughts of animals. Edward Arnold, Charles Ruggles and Spring Byington are others in featured roles.

YORK THEATRE A story of violence mingled with love, of passion interwoven with homicidal madness is Ben Hecht's production "Spectre of the Rose" now showing at the York Theatre. This film has had an enthusiastic reception from critics everywhere and has been acclaimed as one of the ten best pictures by Life and Time magazines. Judith Anderson and Michael Chekhov play the leading roles in an all-star cast.

ROYAL THEATRE Claudette Colbert and Walter Pidgeon may not know it, but they've sounded the death knell of jitterbugging. Since the news that the stars dance the Big Apple in the new M-G-M romantic drama, "The Secret Heart," now showing at the Royal Theatre, teen-agers who don't remember that dance fad of ten years ago have been besieging dancing schools for instruction in it.

Amusements

ON THE SCREEN

Atlas—"Cloak and Dagger," starring Gary Cooper and Lilli Palmer.

Capitol—Ingrid Bergman and Robert Montgomery in "Rage in Heaven."

Dominion—"My Brother Talks to Horses," starring "Butch" Jenkins and Beverly Tyler.

Oak Bay—Errol Flynn and Brenda Marshall in "The Sea Hawk."

Plaza—Don Duryea and Ella Raines in "White Tie and Tails."

Rio—"Spellbound," starring Gregory Peck and Ingrid Bergman.

Royal—Claudette Colbert and Walter Pidgeon in "The Secret Heart."

York—Michael Chekhov and Judith Anderson in "Spectre of the Rose."

RIO THEATRE Red-haired Norman Lloyd is the only actor who has been asked to cut his throat before the camera. The request was made by Director Alfred Hitchcock when Lloyd played the role of a paranoic in his psychological mystery drama, "Spellbound," now holding forth at the Rio Theatre through United Artists release.

CAPITOL THEATRE An automobile that enjoys a unique fame in filmdom was the unusual prop used in "Rage in Heaven," M-G-M triumph, now showing at the Capitol Theatre with Ingrid Bergman and Robert Montgomery in the starring roles. It was an ordinary Ford but of English make and the only one of its kind available in Hollywood. This particular model was essential to the plot of the picture, adapted from the novel by James Hilton.

OAK BAY THEATRE Brenda Marshall is hoping audiences won't say it's a "fake." The beautiful brunette actress, appearing opposite Errol Flynn at Warner Bros. in "The Sea Hawk," at the Oak Bay Theatre sings for the first time on the screen. And Miss Marshall wants to go on record as doing her own singing and assuring sharp eared fans that it's not done with tricks. The song, a dainty love lyric, is titled very simply, "Donna Maria's Song."

"Cloak and Dagger" Starring Gary Cooper

Intellectual and physical prowess alike are manifested by Gary Cooper in his screen role as a mild-mannered man of learning who turns into a formidable man of action in Warners' "Cloak and Dagger," the United States Pictures production, opening today at the Atlas Theatre for a two-day showing. Aiding and abetting him in other important roles are Robert Alda and Lilli Palmer, famous European star, who makes her American screen debut as Cooper's leading lady.

PETER MEETS A COUSIN OF A SUMMER FRIEND

Peter Rabbit, scampering through the Green Forest in search of feathered friends who had come down from the Far North to spend the Winter, suddenly spied a bird who was a stranger to him. He was just a little smaller than Welcome Robin, and at first glance seemed to be dressed in strawberry red. However, a closer look showed that there were slate-grey markings on his head, under his wings and on his legs. His tail was brown. His wings were brown marked with black and slate. His bill was thick and rather short.

"Who are you?" demanded Peter very bluntly and impolitely.

"I'm Piney the Pine Grosbeak," replied the stranger, seemingly not at all put out by Peter's bluntness.

"Oh," said Peter. "Are you related to Rosebreast the Grosbeak who nested last Summer in the Old Orchard?"

"I certainly am," replied Piney. "He is my own cousin. I've never seen him, because he never ventures up where I live, and I don't go down where he spends the Winter, but all members of the Grosbeak family are cousins."

"Rosebeak is very lovely and I'm very fond of him," said Peter. "We are the best of friends."

"Then I know we are going to be good friends," replied Piney. As he said this he turned and Peter noticed that his tail was forked instead of being square across. Piney whistled and almost at once was joined by another bird, who, in shape was just like him, but who was dressed in slaty grey and olive yellow instead of the bright red he himself wore. Piney introduced the newcomer as Mrs. Grosbeak.

"Beautiful weather, isn't it?" said she. "I love the snow. With no snow about I wouldn't feel at home. Why, last Spring I even built my nest before the snow was gone in the Far North. Can you tell me if there are any cedar trees or ash trees or sumacs near here?"

Peter hastened to tell her just where she would find these trees, and then very timidly asked what she wanted of them.

"Who are you?" demanded Peter very bluntly and impolitely.

"They hold their berries all Winter," replied Mrs. Grosbeak promptly, "and those berries make very good eating. I rather thought there must be some around here. If there are enough of them we certainly shall stay a while."

"I hope you will," replied Peter. "You know if it were not for you folks who come down from the Far North, the Green Forest would be rather a lonely place in Winter."

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

"OUT OF SIGHT, OUT OF MIND"

"That out of sight is out of mind
Is true of most we leave behind"

Those lines are by the Victorian poet, Aurthur Hugh Clough. But the old saying, for which a reader inquires, runs the gamut of well-known poets back to the ninth century, B.C. And it is as familiar in German, where it is "Aus den Augen, aus den Zinn" (out of eyes, out of mind.

In the famous "Imitation of Christ" Thomas A. Kempis in 1460 wrote:

"And when man is out of sight, quickly also is he out of mind."

About a century later the saying in the exact form in which we use it today, "Out of sight, out of mind," appeared as one of the "Proverbes" of John Heywood.

As it continued in circulation, of course, the idea was given expression by other poets important enough to survive for posterity. In the Sonnets of Sir Fulke Greville, dating 1600, we find:

"Out of mind as soon as out of sight."

The first recorded use of the words, which can also be translated in the form with which we are familiar, "Out of sight, out of mind," is found in the Odyssey of Homer, who is dated in the ninth century, B.C.! And we cannot omit another great work of classical antiquity, the Meditations of Marcus Aurelius, who wrote in the second century, A.D.:

"As soon as the breath is out of their bodies, it is 'Out of sight, out of mind.'"

Ken Reardon Star As Canadiens Win

Burly Defence Ace Ties Game in Last Minute As Montreal Wins Second Play-Off in Overtime

FORUM, MONTREAL, March 27 (CP).—The fighting, driving spirit of husky Kenny Reardon sparked Montreal Canadiens into a 2-1 win over Boston Bruins in an overtime battle here tonight before a roaring crowd of 11,874, who saw the Habitants take their second straight win in the best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final.

Reardon, rushing, hustling Irish rearguard of the Flying Frenchmen, hauled victory from defeat as he banged home the tying goal with only 52 seconds of the third period left and then roared in with Old Hard Rock Murph Chamberlain, another game fighter, to set up Kenny Mosdell's winning goal after 5:38 of the sudden-death overtime session.

It was a heart-breaker for Bruins and their sparkling goalie, Frankie Brimsek, who played his heart out in the third period as Canadiens were in on two or three dangerous rushes that looked labeled.

Bruins, who played a hard-bumping, close-checking game, but still carried their share of the fight and outshot Canadiens in regular time, had taken the lead at the 3:02 mark of the middle frame when Bobby Bauer came in with Bill Cowley and Porky Dumart to outguess Canadiens' goalie, Bill Durnan.

The teams now move on to Boston for games Saturday and next Tuesday, with Canadiens overwhelming favorites. Canadiens won nine and tied two in 12 games with Boston this year, Bruins' only win coming on Montreal ice.

In contrast with the sometimes dull game here Tuesday night, both squads tore out from the opening whistle to bear down with all they had.

SUMMARY

First Period—No scoring. Penalties: Gallinger, Chamberlain (major), Reay, Reardon, Egan.

Second Period—1, Boston, Bauer (Dumart, Cowley), 3:02. Penalties: Leger, McGill.

Third Period—2, Montreal, K. Reardon (Richard), 19:08. Penalty: Reay (misconduct).

Overtime Period—1, Montreal, Mosdell (K. Reardon, Chamberlain), 5:38.

Concede Green Upset Chance In Cerdan Mix

NEW YORK, March 27 (AP).—From all you hear, it would appear that Marcel Cerdan, the European middleweight champion, will be the only fighter in Madison Square Garden's ring tomorrow night. However, Harold Green says he will show up, as long as the subway is running from Brooklyn.

What's more, the rugged fire-hydrant swatter out of the tough Brownsville section is unimpressed by the Cerdan buildup and insists it makes no difference that practically everyone except his immediate family is saying it's too bad for him in his ten-rounder.

If he should win, as he expects, it would cause confusion among (a) the bookmakers and (b) the steering committee of Promoter Mike Jacobs' 20th Century Sporting Club, to say nothing of the paying customers, who are expected to bulge the Garden at the seams.

The bookies have made Cerdan 5-to-12 favorite in the 100th fight of his career. He's racked up 50 knockouts in his 12 years in the ring, and lost only two bouts, both on fouls.

Marcel likes to come to an opponent in a hurry, and most of his rivals, back-pedaling from his rushes, have been obliging. Green is a horse from a different garage. They've been calling him the Brownsville Mickey Walker, because of his style of walking in and swinging, with no reverse gear. That way, he's lost only two fights of 28 since he got out of the army in 1944.

Brandon Elks Edge Canucks

WINNIPEG, March 27 (CP).—Bud Evans' second goal of the night with 40 seconds of play remaining gave Brandon Elks a 2-1 victory over Moose Jaw Canucks in the opening game of a best-of-seven series for the Western Canada junior hockey championship and the Abbott Cup.

It was as thrilling a finish as the packed house of 5,000 could wish to see between two evenly matched teams who battled each other doggedly all the way.

The game seemed headed for overtime when the puck slid out to the Saskatchewan-born Evans from a scramble beside the Moose Jaw net. He took two strides and fired it home from about five feet out.

In the remaining 50 seconds Canucks ran riot inside the Brandon blue line but they just couldn't score. Elks iced the puck with ten seconds to go for their first breather in that time and before the Canucks could get organized again the game had ended.

Loose pucks resulted in two of the three goals and almost resulted in a half-dozen more.

A forward pass from Fred Dunsmore to Evans led to the first Brandon counter and the only score of the first period.

Canucks tied it up in the second with Vic Kreklewetz the hero. He picked up a loose puck at centre, went down the boards and let go a low drive to the corner which McDermid didn't see.

Legion Road Race Draws 21 Runners

Twenty-one entries have already been received for the annual Canadian Legion Good Friday road race, it was announced last night by Bill Pynn, committee chairman.

Largest entry list is in the five-mile senior event, which has drawn a total of 12 runners, two of them from the Western Sports Centre, Vancouver. Four are entered in the 2½-mile intermediate race and five in the one-mile junior event.

Victoria entries have been received from the Y.M.C.A., Navy, Canadian Legion, Oak Bay High School and Oaklands School.

Entries must be postmarked on or before March 29, closing date for entries, and should be forwarded to the Y.M.C.A.

Rebuilt Boston Braves Touted As Possible Pennant Threats

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., March 27 (AP).—Billy Southworth's Boston Braves, 75 per cent improved over last year's fourth-place club, are the dark horse team of the National League and a definite factor in the pennant race.

Every place a touring baseball writer goes, the warning is heard "Watch out for those Braves."

This up-and-coming organization, headed by energetic President Lou Perini, has the cash and the determination to make something of the Braves. The records say they are succeeding.

Given a little more pitching strength and a dash of luck, the Braves could be a contender. Even as they stand today they figure a sure shot for the first division, a distant goal a few years ago.

Earl Torgeson, bespectacled rookie first baseman from Seattle, is a good example of the new Braves spirit. On the advice of their own scouts and word from Southworth that the Cardinals also were "high" on the boy, the Boston owners spent $75,000 and assigned five players to the Pacific Coast League club.

Right now, Torgy is the Varsity first sacker because Ray Sanders will be out for most of the season as a result of last year's broken arm.

Nobody knows if Torgeson can make the grade although General Manager John Quinn thinks he has a chance to become "not just as good ball player but a great one."

The deal by which Third Baseman Bob Elliott came to the Braves from Pittsburgh looks like another master stroke. Elliott, happy to know he will play third and not be shuttled back and forth from the infield to the outfield as he was in Pittsburgh, appears to have caught the Southworth spirit and is hustling like a rookie.

The Braves are deep in outfield strength with the apparent first line consisting of Danny Litwhiler in left, Johnny Hopp in centre and Tommy Holmes in right.

Select Intermediate 'Juvenile Day' Squad

Officials of the Lower Island Junior and Juvenile Football Association are working hard on plans for the annual "Juvenile Day," which will be held this year on Good Friday.

Proceeds from the day are turned over to the juvenile loop and provide a large share of the funds necessary to operate the league. In the past, Victoria soccer fans have proven their sportsmanship by giving their full support and another large crowd is expected.

This year, an all-star eleven from the intermediate league will oppose a selected club from the Victoria and District Football League in what should prove an interesting encounter.

Players in the intermediate circuit feel that they are almost on a par with their senior league opponents and will be out after added prestige by turning in a victory while the senior representatives will be anxious to maintain their higher rating.

Intermediate officials announced their all-stars last night with five Oak Bay players, four from the Saanich Thistles and two from Navy comprising the starting line-up. The young, bustling aggregation will be managed by Bruce Robinson, Sr., with Jim Carmichael as trainer.

Line-up follows: Kinch, Navy; Denoni, Oak Bay; Robbins, Saanich Thistles, and Knappett, Oak Bay; Robinson, Oak Bay; Greene, Navy; Wiseman, Saanich Thistles; Smith, Saanich Thistles, and Thompson, Oak Bay. Spares: MacKereth, Gorge Aces; J. Thompson, Oak Bay, and Baldwin, Nicholas and Patterson, Thistles.

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 27 (AP).—It's beginning to appear that the Masters tournament committee came up with a combination "ringer-dark-horse" in inviting Bobby Locke, the South African golf champion, to play in this year's event.

Locke, fresh from a tour of South Africa with British Open Champion Sammy Snead as the victim, has never won any of the game's bigger titles, but it wouldn't surprise a lot of people if he won the Masters.

It's a cinch he'll be as big a drawing card as the event will have to offer, purely because of his international background and his consistent success against Snead. Anybody who can drub Snead the way Locke did, as most golf fans will admit, is definitely a contender.

Under the rigid invitational rules governing this time-honored event here April 3 to 6 over the 6,800-yard National course, Locke could not qualify. So the committee extended a special invitation to him as a "foreign champion."

Locke's putting game on unfamiliar greens will no doubt be the chief centre of interest concerning him, for it was in that field that other foreign contenders in recent months—Dai Rees, Dick Burton and Charlie Ward, all of England—had the most trouble.

Fan Nominates Rookie Wright As Top Athlete

Rookie Wright, popular basketball, baseball and soccer star, became the first Victoria athlete to be nominated for the Sid Thomas Memorial Trophy yesterday.

To be presented annually to Victoria's outstanding amateur athlete, the trophy commemorates the memory of Sid Thomas, former sports editor of The Daily Colonist who passed away last June.

The winning athlete will be selected from names submitted by sports fans by a committee consisting of four well-known Victoria sports figures and the sports editor of The Daily Colonist. He, or she, will keep the handsome bronze trophy for one year and in addition will receive a replica for permanent possession and a suitably engraved wrist watch from The Daily Colonist.

Two seasons' box seats to all home games of the Victoria Athletics will be awarded to the fan judged to have written the best letter of nomination. In making the award, sportsmanship as well as ability will be one of the factors.

Par Takes Beating In Charlotte Open

CHARLOTTE, N.C., March 27 (AP).—Veteran Willie Goggin of White Plains, N.Y., who has spent 25 of his 41 years playing golf, scored a six under par, 33-33-66, today to take the 18-hole lead in the $10,000 Charlotte open tournament. He was one stroke ahead of six 67 shooters who, in turn, were hotly pursued by five 68 performers.

The touring stars went on a par-pulverizing rampage, 28 sub-par rounds being turned in and five others equaling the standard 72 for the 6,410-yard Myers Park Club course.

Oak Bay Reaches Colonist Cup Final

A neat four-goal performance by Dave Whittingham and a steady all-round attack by a nippy forward line gave Oak Bay High School an overwhelming 6-1 win over Mount View High School in a Colonist Cup semi-final replay yesterday at Royal Athletic Park. Half-time score was 4-0 for the winners.

By their victory, Oak Bay qualified to meet Mount Douglas in the final at Royal Athletic Park next Thursday. Game time will be 2:30 p.m.

Before the contest was five minutes old, Glen Smith gathered in a lob from Gerry Main and smashed the first Oak Bay counter past Gerald Ball. Keeping up a sustained attack, the Bays made it 2-0 when Main again set up Dennis Wells, who placed a cross on the boot of Ken Hill.

Mount View came back with a rush, and Dave Paterson had to be good to clear from Doug Betts and Harold Gold in quick succession. Play swept to the other end of the field, where Pat Smith handled in an attempt to clear. Whittingham drove the spot kick past Ball for the third Oak Bay tally. Shortly before half-time, Hill put Whittingham in position to score the best goal of the game with a first-timer to the corner.

Mount View came back strongly in the second half and only a stout defence and good work by Paterson held off a score. Norman Sanders headed just over the bar on a cross from Fernyhough. Bill Hope fired a long shot that was hot to handle, and Betts miskicked when close in. Against the run of the play, Glen Smith gathered in a long pass, drew the defence and slipped the ball to Whittingham, who made no mistake with his shot to the corner.

After ten minutes, John Poole pulled down Leo Kozak in the penalty area and Referee Neil Swainson awarded a spot kick. Paterson partially blocked Bill Hope's shot, but the same player followed in fast to boom the ball into the net for the lone Mount View counter. Shortly before full time, Ronnie MacLeod put Whittingham away with a pass through the middle for the last score of the fast-moving contest.

The teams:

Oak Bay High—Dave Paterson, Gordon Vicselis and Ken Wright; John Poole, Gerry Main and Jim Mill; Dennis Wells, Ken Hill, Dave Whittingham, Ronnie McLeod and Glen Smith. Subs: John Olson, Don Wilson, Bob Sherratt, Alex McCabe and Bob Hutchison.

Mount View High—Gerald Ball; Eric Coles and Pat Smith; Murray Macdonald, Bill Hope and Clive Watson; Fred Fernyhough, Norman Sanders, Doug Betts, Harold Gold and Leo Kozak. Subs: Stewart Price and Grant MacArthur.

They were Cinder Main, Lady's Chance, Beau Catcher, Gin Lime, Grisons and Flo L.

Ban on Negro In O.C. Rings "Unjustified"

LONDON, March 27 (AP).—The controversy over a racial "ban" in British boxing reached the House of Commons yesterday with a statement from Colonial Secretary Creech Jones that it was "quite unjustified" and that he would attempt to have it eliminated.

Negro boxers may fight for British Empire championships, but are barred by the British Board of Boxing Control from competing for British national titles which are separate from Empire crowns.

Creech Jones, in a written reply to John Lewis, Labor, said the Colonial Office discussed the ban with the B.B.B.C.—which controls British boxing—last June, and that the Control Board "implied" that being eligible to Empire titles "was sufficient to satisfy their (negroes') aspirations."

The current revolt against the B.B.B.C. was touched off last week when Al Phillips of London was awarded a widely-booed decision over Cliff Anderson, British Guiana negro, in an Empire featherweight title fight, which drew considerable criticism from London fight writers. One writer pointed out, too, that one of the leading prospects in England now is Randolph Turpin, a negro who served in the merchant marine during the war.

After receiving Creech Jones' statement, Lewis announced he would form an association of promoters, managers and boxers to fight the discrimination.

Chesty Rookie Tabs Himself As Great Star

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., March 27 (AP).—Earl Torgeson, one of the cockiest rookies ever to reach the major leagues, not only admits he is good but is proving it.

The youngster was purchased by the Boston Braves from Seattle of the Pacific Coast League for $50,000 and four players while still in the army. When he arrived at the Braves' training camp he told everyone within earshot that he would be the regular first baseman. And barring the unforeseen, he appears a cinch to be stationed there when the regular National League campaign gets under way April 15.

Of course, the task was made easier for him when Ray Sanders, the 1946 regular first baseman, underwent an arm operation.

"I'm sorry about Sanders, but it wouldn't have made any difference if it were Sanders, or Lou Gehrig at his peak, I'd beat both out," cracked the 23-year-old freshman.

Torgeson sees no difference between the majors and minors.

"Shucks, if a guy is a hitter, he'll hit anywhere."

B.C. Racing Officials Fight Proposed Increase in Levy

$90,000 Loss For Toronto Pro Hoop Club

TORONTO, March 27 (CP).—Canada's Eastern professional basketball scene—much discussed but only slightly viewed—by next season may vanish, shift or be repeated in its present form, depending on the men who have dropped a small fortune endeavoring to popularize the game here.

The initial season for Toronto Huskies, only Canadian entry in the Basketball Association of America, ends this month with the club out of the play-offs and its backers $90,000 in the red.

Various stunts, ranging from prize nylons for the ladies and bargain-price "booster" tickets to high school curtain-raiser have failed to draw fans to Maple Leaf Gardens in sufficient numbers to pay for necessary equipment, let alone fancy salaries for players imported from the United States.

A crowd of 7,200 fans saw the league opener but there has been as few as 500 at some contests and there's no indication the game has sold itself to Garden fans, accustomed to hockey and less interference by way of official whistles.

Just what will happen to the Huskies' franchise won't be known until after a directors meeting following the B.A.A play-offs.

Coach Robert (Red) Rolfe thinks it will take three years to establish the pro sport here and asks the money-satchel boys: "Can you hold the fort that long?"

Oak Bay, Thistles To Play for Title

Intermediate soccer championship of Lower Vancouver Island will be at stake tomorrow at Royal Athletic Park when Oak Bay and Saanich Thistles clash in the final at 1:15 p.m.

The opposing clubs have dominated their league from the start with little to choose between them. They ended in a deadlock for first-half honors, with the Thistles squeezing through to win the second half.

League officials also announced that Saanich Indians and Navy would meet in a league match, Sunday, at Hampton Road, commencing at 2:30 p.m

CIROS SOFTBALL PRACTICE

Ciros senior "A" men's softball club will work out at Central Park on Sunday morning commencing at 10:30. Any interested players are invited to attend.

If municipal levies on horse racing at Lansdowne are increased to $400 a day, B.C. Turf and Country Club Ltd., will be left with two alternatives: Either to reduce purses and revert to country fair standard of racing, or close down altogether.

This was the statement made yesterday before the Legislature's committee on municipal matters by G. L. Fraser, K.C., counsel for the racing company.

Recently the committee agreed to recommend to the House that municipal taxes on race meetings, now $150 a day everywhere, should be raised to $400 at Lansdowne or Brighouse, and $200 at the Willows.

Yesterday W. C. Mearns told a special meeting of the committee that the Willows could not stand more than $150 a day. Class of horses brought here last year was much higher than in any previous season, but if municipal taxes were to go up purses would have to come down and the standard would be lowered.

Anything over $150 would be out of all reason, Mr. Mearns declared.

Mr. Fraser told the committee B.C. Turf showed a loss of $537 on last year's operations. It had paid the Provincial Government close to $300,000 on 7 per cent of the take and 20 per cent of admissions, and the Dominion Government $200,000 on 5 per cent of take and amusement tax. It had paid $4,200 at $150 a day to Richmond municipality, and $2,400 in land tax.

"We ran the track last year entirely for the benefit of the Governments," Mr. Fraser declared.

He said the company had spent $100,000 on buildings from the sale of shares, and had increased purses by $20,000 to bring in the best class of horses the province had ever seen. Increase to $400 a day would cost the company an extra $8,000.

"If we are forced to close down, it would be a black eye to racing in British Columbia and a black spot on Canadian investments," he said. The company has 1,100 California shareholders.

Mr. Fraser suggested to the committee that municipalities with race tracks should receive a percentage of the Government take. From a business point of view, he did not think they should be allowed to tax racing at all.

Reeve R. M. Grauer of Richmond told the committee the municipality should get $500 a day, whether it came from the Government or racing interests.

He said his council was not against racing, but there were two tracks in the municipality run the year round for training, and the municipality had to provide roads. If the Government were taking all the money, it should classify those roads as arterial highways.

The committee later reported to the House recommending that the Government consider revision of its policy on collection of taxation on horse racing with a view to reimbursing the municipalities in which taxation was collected.

Judges Named For Annual Spring Show

Derek Rayne, Carmel, California, well-known American judge, will judge the sporting, sporting hound, working and terrier groups as well as the best-in-show in the annual Spring championship show of the Victoria Kennel Club, scheduled for the Bay Street Armoury on Saturday, April 12.

This is the first appointment Rayne has accepted to judge in the province and he will be a total stranger to exhibitors here. He is licensed by the American Kennel Club to judge all breeds.

Joseph Caswell, Edmonton, will pass judgment on the toy and non-sporting groups. He is a well known judge at Prairie shows and the Victoria show marks his first appearance in a British Columbia ring.

Explicit instructions have been received from the Canadian Kennel Club that no entries will be permitted after April 1. Entry forms may be obtained from the Pet Shop, Douglas Street, or by dialing E 2536. The show is again being sponsored by the Junior V.O.N.

One of the features is expected to be the large entry in the terrier group. The Island Terrier Club are co-operating fully and are certain to have a record entry.

Victoria Schools Swimming Gala Set This Evening

Victoria's youthful swimmers from young grade school tadpoles to college graduates have been tapering off their final workouts for the annual Greater Victoria Schools Swimming Gala to be held by the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club at the Crystal Garden tonight at 7:30 p.m.

Over 270 entries have been received from schools representing all sections of the district and 199 entries have been received for the individual events. Altogether 18 events have been lined up by club officials under Jim McCague, gala director and the prospective large crowd will be entertained with a variety of races including the usually keenly contested relay races between rival schools.

Prizes are to be presented after each event by Mrs. R. H. Ribberson of the V.A.S.C.

Ken Black After Lost Golf Laurels

VANCOUVER, March 27 (CP).—Golfers showed flashes of mid-season form, with towering tee shots and pin-splitting approaches, as the golf season was formally inaugurated here this week.

Stan Leonard, with a two-under-par 70, won the qualifying round of the city match play golf championship. Well back among the 32 qualifiers was Ken Black with a 77.

Although nobody is selling Leonard — probably Canada's ranking professional shotsmith—short, there are plenty of divot experts who think 34-year-old Simon-pure Black will still take the honors from hard-hitting Stan.

It's no secret that Black, one of the all-time Canadian top amateurs, is going to go all out this Summer to put himself back on top of the heap as this country's champion golfer.

After ruling the roost for a long time, Ken lost in the final of the British Columbia amateur last season to Lyle Hurschman. He went down again in the Canadian amateur final to Edmonton's golfing policeman, Henry Martell.

One of the few golfers to get himself physically in top shape for tournaments, Ken is working out regularly in a gymnasium.

BOND BUSINESS SLUGGISH

MONTREAL, March 27 (CP). — Bond trading was quiet today with two-pay issues in continued good demand and offerings scarce. Bells were moderately active in utilities and inclined to easiness. Donnaconas and Western grains were in fair demand among industrials.

Trade between Canada and India is complementary, not competitive. Canadian imports from India totaled $30,000,000 in 1945.

Gary Cooper Bags a Wildcat

DEMONSTRATING what the well-equipped hunter requires for a foray into the snowy wastes after big game, screen star Gary Cooper poses at Sun Valley, Idaho, displaying a wildcat he shot a few miles from the famed Winter resort. Cooper spotted the cat while motoring, hied him home to grab his trusty rifle, tracked the beastie through waist-high snow and dispatched it with a single shot. Just like his movie thrillers!

Dividend Payments

TORONTO, March 27 (CP).—Dividend payments by Canadian corporations in March—$40,908,913—were the highest for any corresponding month in years, J. R. Timmins & Company, stockbrokers, announced. This figure compares with $35,768,360 for March, 1946, and $34,877,214 for March, 1945.

Cumulative total for the first quarter of 1947 of $85,607,312 was up from $71,046,683 for the similar period of 1946, and from $66,402,722 for the first three months ended March 31, 1945.

London Market

LONDON, March 27 (Reuters). — The stock exchange showed strength today with South African golds active and coppers enjoying fair popularity.

The foreign railway market also was active, closing near the top despite profit-taking. On the whole, industrials were quiet.

British Government stocks made slow but steady progress, generally closing ¼ of a point better. Interest in oils, and in particular Mexican Eagle, faded as the day went on.

Chilean bonds proved the best foreign bond feature, rising to 43, while Brazilians held firm.

ANSWER TO YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE

JUST BIG BOY

WINNIPEG (CP)—Carving names on furniture resulted in an exchange of desks at a recent city council meeting. Ald. E. A. Brotman suggested he exchange desks with Ald. George Sharpe, as his desk had the name "Sharp" carved on it. Investigation showed the only other Sharp to hold city office was Ald. Sharpe's father. The exchange effected—Ald. Sharpe was still wondering after council adjourned. "I don't think he'd leave the 'e' off his name."

NOW is the time when an employer may secure the best type of young person to train on the job, to become one of his regular employees.

CANADIAN VOCATIONAL TRAINING — a joint program of the Dominion and Provincial Governments — arranges and supervises the placement of veterans, either men or women, for training on the job.

THE EMPLOYER pays the trainee what he earns during training, and where necessary the Dominion Government will add to this amount so that the veteran may have a living income while training.

THE DEPARTMENT OF VETERANS' AFFAIRS gives approval for training veterans on the job in any occupation which is suitable, and where the veteran will master a definite occupation, looking to his future employment.

IF YOU, as an employer, have any training vacancies in which veterans may be placed, contact the nearest representative of CANADIAN VOCATIONAL TRAINING.

OR get in touch with the nearest office of the NATIONAL EMPLOYMENT SERVICE.

This is a real opportunity for employers to secure trained, efficient personnel, while aiding rehabilitation.

Co-operation Is Needed Says Curtis

Need of better understanding and co-operation between the school system and outside interests was emphasized by Austin. I. Curtis, chairman of the Greater Victoria School Board, at a meeting on the operation of vocational training courses in schools.

The meeting, first to be held by the newly-formed special vocational and technical training advisory committee, was attended by representatives of management, labor, women's organizations and Provincial Government departments. Among the latter were H. A. Jones, director of technical education for the department of education and Mrs. Bertha Rogers, provincial director of home economics.

The group decided to meet periodically and will advise the Greater Victoria School Board on all matters concerning vocational or technical courses. Sub-committees on functional trades have been struck and these will assist work on special vocations.

In addition to Mr. Curtis, speakers were Mr. Jones, George Anstey, night schools director; Miss B. Ramsay, head of the home economics department, Victoria High School; Reginald Heywood, teacher at Victoria High School and Miss M. Beveridge, president of the Business and Professional Women's Club.

Suggests Asking For Parsons As Investigator

Acting for the Victoria branch of the S.P.C.A., R. D. Harvey, K.C., has suggested that Commissioner T. W. S. Parsons of the British Columbia Police act in any public investigation into the artivities of the branch, as previously requested.

Mr. Harvey said that Commissioner Parsons' name "was put forth merely as a suggestion, with full realization that the Atorney-General could recommend anyone he considered fit for the purpose.

"If a public investigation is ordered by the British Columbia branch of the S.P.C.A. as requested by my clients," he said, "the commissioner would be eminently suitable for this purpose if his services could be made available."

Demand for the investigation followed allegations reportedly made by Sydney Pickles at the annual meeting of the British Columbia parent body in Vancouver against the Victoria branch.

Mr. Harvey added that before the terms of reference for the investigation could be laid before Attorney-General Gordon Wismer, it would be necessary to have a copy of the allegations made by Mr. Pickles.

"There is one further matter," he said, "which concerns the constitution. There should be some provision which would prevent local branch societies accepting as members individuals who reside in an entirely different area. It should not be permissible for example, for persons residing in Victoria or any other place where there is a local branch, to join the Vancouver branch, or any other branch outside the area in which the individual lives."

Such a procedure, he said, would "destroy the whole idea of the function of branch societies."

Club Discussed For All Ranks Of C.S.R. Here

Discussion of a projected Canadian Scottish Memorial Building which would serve as a club for all regimental ranks highlighted a committee meeting of the Canadian Scottish Association.

Major E. A. Henderson, chairman of the building committee, was instructed to inspect a number of available buildings to be considered as sites for the new club. The committee will work in co-operation with the finance committee, it was announced.

An effort will also be made to interest former members of the regiment living in Up-Island communities, particularly in Courtenay and Port Alberni, in a memorial plate to be placed on the Memorial Cross in Pioneer Square here. The plate would honor the Scottish dead in the World War.

Another plaque will be erected in the entrance way of the Bay Street Armoury, it was announced, honoring the regimental dead in both wars. Major E. A Henderson will be in charge of arrangements.

Brigadier E. C. Rockingham, association president, said he would try to obtain an appointment with National Defence Minister Douglas Abbott when he arrives in Victoria next week to discuss the obtaining of more kilts for the regiment.

The matter of a regimental history is under consideration, it was reported, but as yet no one has been appointed to write it.

Annual association dinner will be held on September 6, according to tentative plans. This time has been chosen because the date is significant in the history of the regiment in both wars.

Many Gather To Welcome Two Warships

With the destroyer Crescent, the cruiser Uganda arrived at Esquimalt yesterday after completing a combined training and good-will cruise which took her to waters off Panama.

A large crowd of friends and relatives gathered on the Government wharves at Esquimalt to greet loved ones serving on board the ships. A large number of Victoria men serve on both vessels.

"We had an exceptionally fine cruise and good weather," remarked Capt. K. Adams, commanding officer of H.M.C.S. Uganda. Apart from an emergency operation performed on Able Seaman Graham, for appendicitis, the cruise was free from any excitement.

Final training cruise of the Uganda will begin Tuesday when she leaves on a trip in British Columbia coastal waters. Some time in July, the Uganda will be decommissioned, and replaced by her sister ship, H.M.C.S. Ontario, now undergoing a thorough refitting at the Esquimalt naval base.

Recommendation that lots at Victor and Bay Streets be set aside for use as a playground will be made to the lands and zoning committee by the parks committee, Ald. D. D. McTavish, chairman, said.

Character Development Is Aim Of Sea Cadets, Rotarians Told

The Sea Cadet movement in Canada "is concerned solely with the development of character and qualities of good citizenship among boys, and is non-militaristic in outlook," E. F. Fox, chairman of the Sea Cadet committee of the Victoria Branch of the Navy League of Canada, said here yesterday.

In an address to the weekly luncheon meeting of the Victoria Rotary Club, Mr. Fox added that while it was recognized that the Sea Cadet training might develop in some of the youngsters a desire to pursue naval careers, "that is only considered a secondary phase of Sea Cadet work."

"Our aim is to instill in the boy a sense of duty, an appreciation of loyalty, a spirit of a feeling of self-reliance and an appreciation of discipline," he explained.

Mr. Fox reviewed the history of the Sea Cadet movement from its inception in 1896 up until the World War, when the movement increased its membership from 3,500 to 15,000 youngsters. About 6,000 former Sea Cadets saw active service during the war with the Royal Canadian Navy, he said.

During the war, he continued, financing of the movement was made the joint responsibility of the Navy League and the national treasury. Today, however, the movement is resuming its former position on a voluntary basis under the Navy League of Canada.

An unusual event marked the Rotary Club meeting when Rotarian M. J. Little introduced his son, Thomas Little, as a new member of the organization.

Walter Fletcher announced that the club would be host to a group of Saanich farmers at a forthcoming luncheon meeting. J. H. Crossley, assistant horticulturalist of the Dominion Experimental Farm, Saanichton, will be guest speaker.

President J. Len Hobbs welcomed a group of 18 visiting Rotarians, including Dr. G. M. Aitkin, Banff; George Cowie, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.; R. G. Smith, Calgary; John McInnis, Prince George; Jack Haggert, Vancouver; John Halliday, North Bay; Stan Jeffrie, Vancouver; Bill Johnson, Revelstoke; A. B. Ritchie, Salmon Arm; T. J. McAuliffe, Lynn, Mass.; S. Cameron, St. Paul; Jack McAfee, Red Deer; Bill Plaunt, Sudbury; W. W. Cooper, Swift Current; K. McKay, Penticton; R. N. Thompson, Sudbury; Frank Bowman, Sioux Lookout, and Roy Bowman, Saskatoon.

Aero Club at Duncan Seeks Approval of Airplane Base

DUNCAN, March 27.—The Duncan Aero Club has applied to the City Council for support of its application to have Quamichan Lake declared an airplane base by the Dominion Government.

The council favors an airplane base, but as the proposed site is in North Cowichan, and the residents of Quamichan Lake and the council of the rural municipality are in strenuous disagreement as to the merits of the site, the Duncan council will not specify any particular location. However, aldermen are in favor of an airport being made available within a reasonable distance of the city.

A new ice and cold storage plant is being constructed at the lake.

School Sports At Fairbridge

SHAWNIGAN LAKE, March 27.—Working with the approval and support of trustees of Cowichan School District No. 65, Lower Island Rural School Sports Association met recently in Cowichan Station School to discuss plans for this year's meet. The annual sports, including schools from the southern part of the district, have been held for several years at Fairbridge Farm School. Cups for competition will include the big trophy for the school winning the highest percentage in proportion to the number of entries, now held by Shawnigan Lake; a smaller trophy for the leading one-room school, now held by Sylvania, and a perpetual challenge tug-of-war cup, now held by Shawnigan Lake.

B.C. Stand Given On Juvenile Home

She stated that the decision was communicated to a subcommittee by the deputy minister of health and welfare after the group had asked assistance on the basis suggested in the Goldenberg Commission report.

It was suggested in the letter that the Government might be contacted further on the question through the Union of British Columbia Municipalities, and the City Council was asked to give consideration to the suggestion.

Dispute Arises On Arena Work

The dispute involves the payment to the contractor of the sum of $1,658, for work which arena engineers say was not authorized in the contract.

Taxation Deal Before House

Formal confirmation of Premier John Hart's taxation deal with the Dominion Government, consummated on his visit to Ottawa late in 1946, was brought to the floor of the House last night in the form of a bill to "authorize and implement an agreement between the Dominion and the Province."

It sets up a contract between the two governments for an annual payment [illegible] for vacating the income, corporation and succession duty tax fields of a sum minimized at $18,000,000, but to be based on 1942 population and gross national production.

Term of the agreement is five years, after which it will be reviewed by both governments.

On the basis of the formula contained in the bill—dictated by the Dominion Government—subsidy for 1947 will amount to $21,300,000, and approximately $120,000,000 during the five-year lifetime of the agreement.

THAT'S how a South American would say "asphalt shingles". But strangely enough, here in British Columbia, most people would simply say "Duroid" shingles instead.

You see, Duriod has become so well-known that many people think it applies to ALL asphalt shingles. Actually, the name "Duroid" is an exclusive trade-name that appears ONLY on shingles made by Sidney.

Genuine Duroid shingles have an enviable reputation for dependability and long service.

For your own home, you can be sure of getting what you ask for—Genuine Duroid Shingles—by looking for the Sidney Seal of Quality on every bundle. It's there for your protection!

They're Genuine DUROID SHINGLES ONLY if they're made by
